Prohibition, Farewell
Work for 4,000,000? Goody
Farley Is Not So Easy
Chapter Two in Radio

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PROHIBITION IS DEAD, the voters of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah completing the necessary 36 states. Another dangerous experiment in control of the majority by a minority, another effort to change by law the customs of men and the habits of centuries, comes to an end for the present.

Unfortunately, while prohibition dies the crime wave and the bootlegging that finances crime survive. But, with the cause abolished, the government will find a way to remove the results.

President Roosevelt announces a plan to find jobs for four million idle, taking them off the public dole system, supplying them with work on self-sustaining federal, state and local public works.

The $400,000,000 to be devoted to this task will be well spent, if the undertaking is successful.

The President hopes that 2,000,000 will be employed on the new work in the course of this month, and two million more before the end of December.

Postmaster-General Farley, head of the New York Democratic State Committee, selected McKee as his candidate and advocated his election.

The New York Times calls McKee's defeat a "smashing blow for Farley," but those who know the Postmaster-General know that to "smash Farley" is not so easy as that.

He is not fragile, mentally or physically, and will not admit that an American citizen can properly be criticized for choosing his candidate and advocating his election.

A few years ago Marconi said that he could send a message through the air across the ocean. Scientists on the western shore, with receiving apparatus ready, waited anxiously and doubtfully for a definite sound, one letter of the alphabet, that was to come to them through the air across 3000 miles of ocean. It came, and that was the beginning of the radio industry, taken as much for granted now as the bicycle, flying machine or fireless cooker.

Radio chapter number two begins next Saturday, with the opening of the greatest radio establishment in the world. In the Radio Corporation of America building in New York's Rockefeller Center, David Sarnoff, president of R. C. A., and Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, will inaugurate the world's greatest, most amazingly complicated broadcasting enterprise, with 20 separate broadcasting studios, one of them "large enough to stage a prize-fight," which, in America, means an enormous hall.

From these many studios, speeches, songs, sad stories and modern "wisecracks" will pour forth, no studio knowing what the other studio is doing, the patient ether gathering up and taking the assorted sounds to their millions of destinations.

In addition, the Rockefeller Broadcasting Center Laboratory will continue working at the problem of "television" that, in time, will enable those that "tune in" actually to see those to whom they listen.

Perfection of television is not here. It may be far away, certainly several years. But when it comes, the great new broadcasting station will be ready for it, equipped with appropriate scientific devices, and a laboratory to hasten its coming.

Mr. Sarnoff and Mr. Aylesworth are to be congratulated on work done for the education and pleasure of the public, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for providing so magnificent a residence for the most important of modern discoveries.

In Tuesday's election the voters expressed the general dissatisfaction by putting out those that were in and by putting in those that were out.

In New York they put out the Democrats and elected Republican-Fusionists, beating not one Democratic ticket, but two.

In Pittsburgh, they put out the Republicans and put in the Democrats.

In Philadelphia also the voters put out the Republicans and put in the Democrats. That had not happened in 50 years.

The Philadelphia incident worries some "best minds," because the Democratic victory is looked upon as a victory for Gifford Pinchot, and his eccentric notion that governments in

Red Plot Is Blamed for Guard on Ely

Danger of a very real variety is threatening Governor Ely, it was admitted in police circles today following the disclosure that his home in Westfield, his hotel in Boston and his office in the State House are under strict guard.

An anarchistic plot, discovered by the State police or the federal authorities, is suspected as the basis of the official apprehension.

The danger is mysterious only in that its nature is being kept secret. It is obviously of a much more tangible quality than that which might be construed from threatening letters.

One report from a source to the Governor said that a plot to blow up the Governor's car because of his recent decisive action in quelling the truckmen's strike, was responsible. This was not confirmed.

ELY DENIES THREATS

The Governor, appearing at the State House accompanied by guards, told newspapermen in his guarded office:

"I don't think the situation has anything to do with any strike. That's my opinion. I haven't received any threats."

Beyond that statement he would not discuss it.

Gen. Daniel Needham, safety commissioner and state police head, revealed that information reaching the police last week was responsible for the guard.

Less apprehension would be felt if threatening letters had been received because these, usually penned by harmless cranks, are seldom followed by violence.

WON'T DISCUSS REDS

"I can't clear up much of the mystery," Gen. Needham said. "As far as I know there have been no letters or threats but we received some information which seems to make it advisable to play safe and not take any chances. Consequently, we put on some additional guards. We have additional plain clothes men here at the State House and at the hotel where the governor stays in Boston and we have one man at his home in Westfield."

"Is it anything to do with any red demonstration?" he was asked.

"I don't want to go into that; I want to see what we can do for a few days," he said.

"All the extra men went on simultaneously last week."

In some respects, Needham's answers hinted that something already may have occurred.

"Of course, you're not content to guard—you're working on what information you have to remove the source of danger?" he was asked.

"Of course," he said.

MAYOR-ELECT HAS $300,000 IN 'PLUMS'

Mansfield Is Expected in Shakeup to Give Dorsey Dolan's Job

Political gossipers were busy today filling positions at City Hall, now held by Curley appointees, with friends and supporters of Mayor-elect Frederick W. Mansfield who will have jobs paying well above $300,000 in salaries to distribute.

Without touching the rank and file of city employes, whom he has promised immunity from ruthless discharge, even where they are not protected by civil service, the mayor-elect can do a lot of shaking-up and hand out many "plums."

Dr. Patrick Mullowney, at present director of the food and drug division of the health department, is mentioned for health commissioner, a post paying $7500 a year and now held by Dr. Francis X. Mahoney. Dr. Mullowney is said to be a cousin of Mansfield.

DORSEY FOR TREASURER

John H. Dorsey, Dorchester banker and drugstore owner, who was treasurer of the Mansfield campaign fund, is expected to replace Edmund L. Dolan as city treasurer at $9000 a year.

Other possible appointments, according to the gossipers, are:

John F. McCarthy of Dorchester, city collector; Frank Kiernan of Dorchester, formerly of East Boston, an active labor leader, as city registrar; former City Councillor William C. S. Healey of East Bostain, member of the election commission; Alphonsus R. Doyle of Jamaica Plain, a contractor, as building commissioner; George MacLaren, Boston tire merchant, superintendent of supplies; John J. Ceehver, superintendent of markets, and Rep. William Dolan of Jamaica Plain, director of public celebrations.

These jobs and others at Mansfield's disposal, which are considered political plums at all times, pay salaries ranging from $5000 upward, and some of those to be filled pay $9000 and $10,000 a year, among the latter being corporation counsel.

$20,000 JOB AT STAKE

Some of the holders of these choice posts will be retained by the incoming mayor but just who the lucky ones will be is something that no two political observers seemed able to agree upon today.

There is also considerable discussion about the status of Gen. Edward L. Logan, who, as chairman of the trustees of the George Robert White Fund gets $20,000 a year from the fund. While the city does not pay this salary, appointment lies with a group generally dominated by the mayor.

Gen. Logan has a contract given him in June, 1930, which does not expire until 1935, and his friends say he will remain in this office until that time, but some think otherwise. It is the biggest plum of all.

A stiff battle is being waged under cover for the position of corporation counsel and the commissionership of public works is also much desired.

There are numerous positions as assistants in various departments which pay highly attractive salaries. In addition, there are many city job-holders listed as temporary employes and if Mansfield cares to continue this practice, these jobs are naturally to be considered as open to his supporters.

Schumann-Heink to Have X-ray Tests

CUBA REBELS TO FORCE U. S. INTERVENE

Deadline Set for Bomb Fusillade This Afternoon

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 9 (INS)—The State Department today was prepared to return additional American warships to Cuban waters at the first serious threat to the lives of United States nationals.

Ten of the 21 U. S. naval vessels which encircled the island have been withdrawn. Most of them are in southern waters and will be ordered to Cuba if necessary.

Havana, Nov. 9—Leaders of the ABC, the radical and secret revolutionary society, broadcast a warning today that they intend to sack American property and provoke intervention by the United States, if their two-day battle for the control of the government is not decided by 3 p. m.

At the same time they warned the public to stay off the streets as they intended to fly airplanes over the city and bomb the palace of President Grau San Martin at that hour.

They also specified 3 p. m. as the moment for dynamiting all vehicles found on the streets.

Artillery went into action at 9 a. m. as loyal government soldiers attacked the famous old Atares fortress, where more than 2000 rebels defy the government.

Already 53 have been killed and 183 wounded in the latest revolt to overthrow President Grau San Martin.

The loyal troops unlimbered at least four 3-inch field pieces and operated them "at will." They were operating the field pieces rapidly and scoring about one direct hit on the fortress out of five shots.

Atares' defenders answered the artillery fire with machine guns and rifles.

WOMAN WATCHER KILLED

One shell that missed the target killed a woman watching the battle from the balcony of her house more than a mile away.

While the government contended it had control of the situation, the rebels claimed the rebellion was under way in Matanzas, Camaguey, and Oriente provinces.

The rebels smuggled arms and munitions throughout the night into Atares fortress, consolidating their positions on the second day of their uprising.

A "state of war" declared throughout the island brought martial law as the government marshalled all its forces to cope with the rebellion. Virtual an-

Law vs. Mother Love—Which Is Right?

OFFICER JENNINGS MRS. PATRONE

Man-made law put Mrs. Eunice Patrone of South Boston in jail today because she refused to tell where she has hidden Jean Marie, 4, the little daughter she "kidnaped" in the court that had awarded the child to foster-parents in East Boston. Sobbing bitterly, but firm in her refusal, the mother was led away. The law maintains its order of adoption is supreme. The mother contends her love comes first.

JUROR FIXING, FEES PROBED

Jury-fixing in Suffolk and Middlesex counties is under investigation by the Massachusetts Crime Commission, it was revealed today.

The commission is also going to investigate the payment of traveling expenses to juries that are locked up, as in the case of the Costello murder trial, and the collection of witness fees by public employes.

MARY AND DOUG TO MAKE UP

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Variety, the theatrical publication, said this week that Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have adjusted their differences and that there will be no divorce.

Miss Pickford was quoted as saying that she will not sell Pickfair, her Hollywood home.

The open break between Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks was first publicly admitted in July of this year when "America's Sweetheart" announced that she and her husband were contemplating a separation and possibly divorce. However there had been rumors of estrangement between the couple for two years previously.

Since the announcement by Miss Pickford there have been statements from both principals and varied reports as to what each might do. Some reports linked Fairbanks with royalty, even to the extent that he might marry a title. However, as late as the middle of last month Fairbanks was quoted as saying that divorce reports were mere inventions and that he would not divorce his wife.

State Hard Liquor Board of 5 Is Bazeley Plan

Establishment of a state hard liquor control commission of five paid members, with a staff to include 50 inspectors and investigators, was urged today at opening of the hard liquor legislation hearing in Gardner Auditorium at the State House.

William A. L. Bazeley, member of the present State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, which has been superintending light wine and beer matters since their advent last April, urged that the matter of a hard liquor commission be taken up first as an emergency measure.

Appearing, he said, as a citizen before the joint committee on legal affairs which is considering Gov. Ely's liquor recommendations and the report of the recess committee which drew up proposed hard liquor laws, Bazeley said he and his associates on the Alcoholic Beverage Commission had had a bitter experience because they were not appointed until the last minute.

"I was notified by the Governor at 1:30 that I was appointed," said Bazeley. "At 4:30 that afternoon there were 500 waiting to apply for licenses.

"We had no employes or assistants, not even a pencil or paper, to aid in handling the situation. I consider it an outrageous way to have any such law passed and impose such conditions. That is why I am here, to suggest that one of your first acts should be to consider legislation for appointment of a commission.

MOTHER SOBS AS SHE GOES TO JAIL FOR BABY LOVE

Judge Dolan Holds Her in Contempt as She Hides Child

Mother love, lauded since time began, put Mrs. Eunice Patrone, the "kidnap mother," in jail today.

Love for her child was greater than her respect for the law and the court before which she stood accused.

She refused to produce her daughter, Mary, four, awarded by Judge Arthur Dolan to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nickerson of East Boston—the child she snatched from the courtroom itself.

And so she was adjudged in contempt of court by Judge Dolan and handed over to a deputy sheriff for removal to Charles st. jail.

A tearful plea by Mrs. Patrone stayed the carrying out of the jail order momentarily.

ACCEPTS HER FATE

Her plea was rejected. She bowed her head.

"All right, then, I'll go to jail for the sake of my baby," she said, and was led away.

A taxicab was called to take Mrs. Patrone to jail in custody of Deputy Sheriffs Daniel A. Whelton and Harry Gallagher.

There she was locked up—

"Until such time as she shall purge herself of contempt by producing, or causing to be produced the child."

Or until further order of the Suffolk probate court or other process of law.

In the same courtroom last month, Mrs. Patrone seized her child and fled, when Judge Dolan decreed that the Nickersons should have the baby, whose name they had changed to Jean Marie.

The Nickersons have brought up the baby since she was 20 days old and Mrs. Patrone had failed to pay board after the first few weeks. Other matters also figured in the decision.

But Mrs. Patrone, taking the child away so swiftly that nobody could stop her, secreted the baby and has kept the child hidden ever since.

REPRIMANDS HER AID

The authorities searched in vain. So did the Nickersons' lawyers, Milton and Samuel Segal. In New Hampshire, New York and elsewhere.

It all came to a showdown today and Mrs. Patrone appeared in court with Miss Marjorie Hurd of the Legal Aid Society.

Judge Dolan began the proceedings by reprimanding Miss Hurd.

"You encouraged Mrs. Patrone to petition this court for a revocation of its decree, when there wasn't one scintilla of evidence to support her cause," he said.

Then he asked for the mother.

"Is Mrs. Patrone in the courtroom?"

"Yes, your honor," said Miss Hurd.

"Call her up to the bench."

Mrs. Patrone stepped forward, the center of attention of the many spectators present.

Judge Dolan—"Where is the baby?"

Mrs. Patrone—"I don't know."

Judge Dolan—"You refuse to produce this child?"

Mrs. Patrone—"I don't know where my baby is."

Judge Dolan — "You refuse

SINCLAIR POOL GOT $12,000,000 PROFIT; DIDN'T PAY A CENT

$2,632,962 FOR OIL PROMOTER AND CUTTEN

Committee Probers Are Amazed by the New Revelations

Washington, Nov. 9—A new "get-rich-quick" scheme, by which an oil syndicate divided $12,000,000 profits without investing one cent, was revealed today by Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago capitalist, at the Senate banking inquiry.

Cutten told how the syndicate sold 1,000,000 shares of Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock to the public in 1928 and 1929. The profits were $12,000,000 and none of the participants in the syndicate ever invested a cent.

Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, and Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the Chase National Bank, shared in the $12,000,000 profits, as did the Chase Securities Corp., and Blair and Co. of New York.

Cutten revealed that Sinclair approached him in the summer of 1928 with a proposal to buy 1,130,000 shares of Sinclair Consolidated Oil common stock at $30 a share.

FORMED SYNDICATE

"I said the price was too high," Cutten related. "The stock then was selling at $28. We talked the matter over for an hour and a half but reached no final decision.. I told Sinclair I would not personally buy that large a block He said 'we will form a group to take part of it.' "

Later negotiations were handled through the New York brokerage house of E. F. Hutton and Co.

"Sinclair agreed to take a one-fourth interest," the witness added. The syndicate was financed partly by the Chase National Bank, some of whose officers shared in the enterprise.

Cutten said his share of the profits were $2,632,962 and that he sold stock before it was delivered and paid for it out of receipts of the sales.

LIST OF PROFITS

Cutten filed with the committee a full list of participants in the $12,000,000 pool and their profits. It follows:

Name	Percentage	Share of Profits
Blair & Co.	22½	$2,632,962.75
Chase Securities Corp	15	1,755,308.50
Shermar Crp (Wiggin)	7½	877,634.23
The Cutten Co. Ltd	22½	2,632,962.75
H F Sinclair	22½	2,632,962.75
Continental National Co	4	468,082.27
Arthur Reynolds	1	117,020.57
A M Andrews	1	117,020.57
The Famoth Corp	1¾	204,785.98
The Travwin Corp	1¾	204,785.93
L W and O Kalman	½	58,510.28
Total	100	$11,702,056.63

WORKED WITH 2 SYNDICATES

Cutten calmly explained how the managers operated two syndicates, which bought and sold the Sinclair stock from each other to "steady" the market price. With the market booming, the first syndicate unloaded its stock on the public.

A second syndicate, with 32 participants, divided an additional profit of $418,383.54. Of this sum $27,654.52 went to Cutten, $31,378.77 to Sinclair, and $41,838.35 each to Laurence P. Fisher and Blair and Co.

Cutten admitted the New York Stock Exchange has launched an inquiry of its own into the operations of the syndicates.

Sen. Couzens (R) of Michigan, was so incensed by the revelation, he charged the syndicates with "manipulating the market."

RASKOB ON STAND

Previously John J. Raskob, former Democratic national chairman, told the banking inquiry how he and Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York, organized a syndicate a year ago to prevent a run on the County Trust Company of New York.

Raskob said the syndicate traded only in stock of the County Trust Co. He explained this step was taken to retain public confidence in the bank following the suicide of James J. Riordan, then president of the bank, in November, 1929.

Home Cares First -:- With Winner's Wife

It was a happy day for Mrs. Frederick M. Mansfield. It was the day after election. Official figures had shown for hours that her husband had been selected to be Boston's mayor. The next first-lady of Boston went merrily about her home. The cameraman snapped her as she looked over her flowers and greens in the foyer of the Mansfield home at 15 Elm Hill ave., Roxbury. The mayor-elect was not at home—neither was their son Walter—but Mrs. Mansfield's mother, Mrs. James Rowe, was there and was she a happy woman. Mrs. Rowe is 84 years of age. (Boston American photo.)

LIQUOR MEN ASK FOR CONTROL

Massachusetts Wholesale Distributors of Alcoholic Beverages, at their monthly meeting at the American House today, recorded themselves favoring state-control for liquor wholesalers and manufacturers as outlined by Gov. Ely's special committee on liquor legislation.

The organization endorsed the policy that all forms of license be issued by local boards.

In endorsing the Governor's commission, the wholesalers rejected the Bentley Warren report.

Frank A. Coleman, president of the association, presided. It was announced that the association would offer no amendments to the report of the special liquor committee, but accept it in whole.

For the two vacancies existing for the special committee of five soon to be appointed by the governor for liquor control, the wholesalers plan to forward a move to have practical representation.

They desire the appointment of one man from their association to properly interpret the practical side of the picture, spokesman for the association said.

"We feel that our industry should be represented on the governor's new committee which will be able to correctly interpret the law from the practical as well as the legal side of the question. To this end, we shall urge the appointment of a member of our own association," it was said.

The report of the special recess committee was outlined to several hundred package dealers.

Auto Death Jump to 508 in Bay State

Deaths from auto accidents in Massachusetts during the first ten months of 1933 numbered 508, an increase of 1.60 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, according to figures announced today by the Travelers' Insurance Co.

The national total is 22,000, which is approximately the same as last year. Increases were marked up in 21 states, the greatest in Idaho, where the figures nearly doubled.

Recognition Basis of Soviet Looms

Washington, Nov. 9—A basis for formal recognition of Russia by this government is understood to have been agreed upon.

What was asked of Russia in the preliminary discussions, it is understood, was a guarantee of her willingness to enter into formal discussion of the validity of the American loans to the Czar.

On her own behalf Russia is expected to ask for trade agreements or a pact of economic non-aggression and a large credit advance.

2ND RECOUNT ASKED IN LYNN

A second petition for a recount of ballots cast in Tuesday's municipal election was filed today with the Lynn election commissioners. In it John J. Joyce, a city council member for 15 years, questions the accuracy of the announcement that he was defeated in his race for councilor-at-large by Walter A. Cuff, 11,165 to 11,058 votes.

The other petition was filed yesterday by Thomas F. Worth, who was defeated in the Ward 1 council race by the incumbent, John A. McAuliffe. Both recounts will take place Monday at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

FORD TO REPLY TO JOHNSON

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9 (US)—Henry Ford will reply to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson when he gets around to it, it was intimated today at Ford headquarters.

The National Recovery administrator in his address at Minneapolis referred to a person, obviously Ford, as "a man who, entrenched in what he regards as an impregnable position of wealth and power, has exercised the most ruthless economic dictatorship of our time."

One Ford Co. official said:

"There will be no comment right now. It is a good policy to hold your fire until you can see the whites of their eyes."

Nine thousand workers at the River Rouge Ford plant are on an enforced seven-day vacation to comply with the 35-hour week limitation of the NRA. Others will go on vacation next week.

Officials said they had received no invitation from Gen. Johnson to apply for an exception.

Handbags Stolen at Bridal Party

A bridal party at the home of Mrs. Samuel Hoberman, at 110 Salem st., Malden, proved costly to seven guests, when it was discovered that a sneak thief had entered the house and stolen seven handbags containing $100.

The theft was discovered when the party broke up, and although police searched the neighborhood, they found no trace of the maruder.

BASIS FOR PACT BY SOVIET AND U. S. DECIDED

Tacit Agreement to Be Aired at the White House Confab

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Foundations for an American-Soviet understanding, embracing diplomatic and economic implications, were formulated at a two-hour conference between Secretary Hull and Maxim Litvinoff.

The next event in the swift succession that has suddenly brought relations between the countries to focus after years of aloofness will be presentation of the situation to President Roosevelt late this afternoon.

No further State Department meeting is planned.

It appeared not unlikely that the indicated Hull-Litvinoff accord forecast the early establishment of a close relationship between the United States and the Soviet.

Secretary Hull later honored Litvinoff at luncheon, the guests including government officials, Senator Couzens of Michigan, and members of the commissioner's party including:

Boris Skvirsky, chief of the Soviet information bureau and Litvinoff's host in Washington; Peter Bogdanov, chairman of the Amtorg Trading Corp.; and Konstantin Umansky, chief of the information division of the Soviet Commissariat for foreign affairs.

A difference of opinion in the views of this government and the Soviet's on one of the outstanding problems between the two nations has become evident in the conversations between Hull and Litvinoff.

This was learned today as Hull and the Soviet statesman resumed discussions for American recognition of the Soviet union.

The difference of opinion, however, is not expected to block an agreement whereby American recognition will be extended to the Soviet government.

JIM ROOSEVELT SEES PEACE

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—James Roosevelt of Cambridge, son of the President, returned on the liner Rex today from a six weeks' vacation tour of Europe, which included calls on Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, President Lebrun of France, Premier Mussolini of Italy and the Pope.

He said he didn't believe that foreign officials would be anything but polite about his father to him, but he added that "They did seem enthusiastic about his program."

He said he was much impressed with the cheerfulness displayed in England and Italy.

"There they are on the upgo," he said, "and they seem to be in no particular hurry about it.

"There is a greater desire, on the part of the man in the street, for peace than ever before. The attitude is 'we don't want to fight and even if we do who is going to pay for it?'"

He and Mrs. Roosevelt will go directly to New Haven, Conn., to see their daughter, Sarah Delano Roosevelt, and then proceed to Washington.

Crown Prince, in Plea for Hitler, Lays War Loss to Marxism

Potsdam, Nov. 9 (AP)—Germany lost the war, Crown Prince Wilhelm asserted today, because she declined to curb drastically the Marxist intellectual poisoning of the people.

Writing in the Lokalanzeiger, the Crown Prince reviewed what he termed Germany's fateful "November days" of the last 25 years.

Ex-Crown Prince

Adolf Hitler

He described how in November, 1918, the old Reich's political leaders yielded finally and broke down under the pressure of revolutionary elements which aimed to overthrow constitutional monarchy. This, he said, "was accomplished in the thick of the hardest fight for existence against a world of enemies who were determined to annihilate the German nation.

"Because no effort was made to stay with an iron hand the processes of Marxist-intellectual poisoning of the people we lost the war.

"It was the last imperial chancellor himself who laid the axe to the roots of the shaking fabric of state. Thus impotence and treachery were equally guilty in the criminal coup de etat of November 9, 1918," he said, continuing:

"On November 10, 1908, parliamentarism won its first victory which proved serious to the personality principle incarnated in the bearer of the crown.

"Exactly 10 years later, the Kaiser Reich perished from a traitor's 'dagger thrust' of a senseless as well as an unmanly revolution.

"The attempt at an internal resurrection in November, 1923, as a precondition for forcing outer liberation by fight, failed by treason."

The crown prince concluded with the reminder that another momentous November day lies ahead—meaning the election and plebiscite through which the government seeks support of its foreign policy next Sunday.

"It is the duty of the last German," he said, "to endorse the plebiscite bill with a yea."

Hailing the Nazi regime, he declared:

CARELESS WETS LOSE CAROLINA

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9 (INS)—The Carolinas' amazing renunciation of the Democratic repeal platform was blamed today by repeal leaders on apathy of wet voters.

Claude N. Sapp, South Carolina state Democratic chairman and repeal leader, said:

"Our people did not realize the importance of the election and were over confident. They just didn't take the trouble to vote.

Gov. Blackwood, who had told Postmaster-General Farley the state was in the bag for repeal, shared Sapp's view.

J. C. Roper of Greenville, S. C., president of the allied prohibition forces, said:

"We consider it a triumph for righteousness and truth."

In North Carolina, Walter Murphy, state repeal manager, commented drily:

"It looks like we are swinging back to Hoover."

However, Cale K. Burgess, dry leader, said:

"We thank God for victory, but I do not regard this as a vote against Roosevelt."

Liner to Call for Freight

A special call at this port for freight pickup is announced for the Hamburg-American Line motorship St. Louis, Nov. 18, en route from New York to Bremerhaven and Hamburg.

U. S. GOLD SETS RECORD HIGH

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The administration watched its gold operations club the dollar to a record low level today and then added another dime to the price it will pay for the metal when newly mined in the United States.

London dispatches told of an overnight drop of 4¾ cents in the exchange value of the dollar as against the pound, opening at $4.98½ and closing at $5.05¼ to the pound.

Meanwhile, the price of gold at London was reduced, but the change in the dollar-pound relationship caused an increase in this quotation when converted into dollars. Today it was $32.76, at the $5.01½ point of the exchange quotation, compared with $32.63 yesterday.

The domestic quotation was increased from $33.05 to $33.15. While yesterday's quotation was 69 cents above the London figure today's was 52 cents.

Al Smith Calls Dry Era Good Lesson

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Prohibition repeal, said Al Smith today, should be a lesson to future generations to keep their fingers out of the constitutional pie on such matters. The former Democratic presidential nominee said:

"Of course, I am delighted with but not surprised at the final repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I felt all along that when this question was properly submitted the people would readily see it has no place in the constitution.

"We will never be able to estimate the benefits of the lesson taught to coming generations that no such matters as this is to be hereafter made the subject of federal constitutional law."

ROOSEVELT IN PARLEY OVER LIQUOR TAX

Seeks to Co-ordinate Program on U. S. Rum Activities

Latest repeal vote figures are:

UTAH—For 101,103, against 63,248.

OHIO—For 1,433,157 against 578,947.

PENNSYLVANIA—For 1,470-987, against 460,133.

KENTUCKY—For 95,452, against 67,318.

NORTH CAROLINA—For 109,660, against 259,000.

SOUTH CAROLINA—For 33,-220, against 36,570.

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt consulted with a special committee of cabinet officers today to map a federal liquor revenue policy after repeal next month.

Views of the state, treasury, justice, commerce and agriculture departments were sought to co-ordinate the government's activities.

The President had before him a lengthy report by a special committee making recommendations on liquor taxes and tariffs and outlining specifically the situation as it will stand when the 21st amendment becomes effective.

The program includes plans to keep dry those states that did not vote to ratify repeal and may revive the sending of the dreaded pre-prohibition revenue agent into moonshine areas.

The house ways and means committee will open hearings on liquor taxation legislation Nov. 27, to prepare a bill for early Congressional action in January.

The present tax is $1.10 a gallon on whiskey, gins and brandies. Although it has been predicted that this will be increased to as high as $3 a gallon, members of a sub-committee, studying the question, claim it will not exceed $2.20. They say a higher tax might encourage the bootleggers to continue in business.

NEWTON'S CHIEF WARNS POLICE

Hereafter Newton police will tend to their policing and nothing else, or else—

The else hasn't been decided upon, but Chief Michael T. Hughes plans something drastic on the order he issued at roll call today.

Police were reprimanded for participating in political discussion. Complaints had come, he said, that several police officers were using the influence of their blue coats to prevail upon voters to vote for one of the mayoral candidates. He received complaints that some of the officers passed out political cards.

"Plugging" for any candidate must cease, he said, or else.

Dr. Whitney Named State Hospital Head

Dr. Edward W. Whitney today was appointed superintendent of Northampton State Hospital by the trustees to succeed the late Dr. Theodore A. Hoch. The appointment was approved by the Department of Mental Diseases.

Dr. Whitney is a native of Putnam, Conn., and a Harvard Medical School graduate.

Tammany Declares War on Foes in Own Ranks

New York, Nov. 9 (US)—Tammany, smashed and outraged by fusion victory, has turned vengeful.

Through its chieftain, John F. Curry, the Tiger bitterly denounced Postmaster-General James A. Farley, national and state Democratic chairman, and "those who acted in concert with him" in efforts "to disrupt Democracy, not only causing the loss of the city-wide ticket, but turning control of the New York Assembly over to the Republicans."

Although names are not mentioned in the Curry statement, it is interpreted to be a blow at Al Smith, heretofore a loyal and staunch Tammany man, for his supposed failure to openly support the Tammany ticket, as well as Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, supporter of McKee for the mayoralty, and James J. Hoey, defeated candidate for borough president of Manhattan.

Meanwhile, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, New York's Fusion mayor-elect, swept into office by a plurality of 254,506, is tired but happy, but prepared to "clear up the city."

While the Tammany pronunciamento asserts that the election shows that New York remains a Democratic city, complete returns show that Tammany will have only three of the 16 votes in the board of estimate.

Much stress is laid on the election of William C. Dodge, Tammany man, as district attorney of New York County. This is far the most important prosecutor's post in the greater city.

However, Dodge says:

"I have no ties with politicians. I am not handcuffed to any bosses. I am independent. I will be grateful for any leads as to racketeers and gangsters. There will be vigorous prosecution."

Joseph V. McKee, recovery party candidate for mayor, has disappeared. He has failed to appear at his headquarters.

The prospect of a demand for a general check on the vote for general sessions judges looms in a call for a fusion conference on the subject. Unofficial returns gave Owen Bohan, Tammany candidate, 207,091 and Justice Frederick Kernochan, fusion candidate, 204,695. The plurality was so close the fusion leaders were not satisfied.

Drys Split on Proposals to Revive Prohibition

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Nov. 9 (INS)—Having lost their 20-year battle to bring about and retain national prohibition, leaders of the nation's dry organizations will assemble here Jan. 3 to map a future policy.

Dr. Wilson

Keenly disappointed by the speed of the repeal victory, they are split upon proposals for action in their new drive.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist board of temperance and morals—one of the most aggressive dry leaders—called upon churches to "change their emphasis from political, commercial and legalistic arguments back to moral appeal."

The Methodist board, he announced, has authorized a university campaign of education and scientific temperance instruction in the public schools.

Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, however, served notice of a new dry political campaign.

"From now on the wets are on the defensive," he said. "We are for the principle and doctrine of prohibition and not for any substitute."

He said his league would start a campaign to regain prohibition territory by persuading states to vote dry.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the National Temperance Bureau expressed himself against a new campaign to reinstate the Eighteenth Amendment at this time, and urged the Drys to devote themselves to urging total abstinence and temperance.

COLLEGES IN BOSTON TO EXPEL ALL GIRLS CAUGHT DRINKING

BAN PUT ON AT B. U., EMERSON, WELLESLEY

Saloon in Any Guise Is Decried by Deans of Institutions

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

As far as college girls are concerned repeal of prohibition won't mean a thing.

Drinking will still be tabooed by college authorities, and at Wellesley, Boston University and Emerson College pretty collegiates face expulsion if caught imbibing.

The saloon, under a high-sounding, high-falutin' other name, be it tavern, or otherwise, is still a saloon in the eyes of the guiding geniuses of college life.

Deans of women and other college officials consider the saloon a "disgrace" and "the thorn in the side of prohibition repeal."

Many of them favored repeal, but are strongly opposed to the return of any form of drinking quarters that permit young women, escorted or unescorted.

WELLESLEY BAN ON

Drinking is officially tabooed at Wellesley and is a prima facie cause for expulsion.

"I, personally, am thoroughly opposed to the return of the saloon," says Mary Cross Ewing, dean of residence. "The college standard of conduct do not tolerate drinking and now as during prohibition and before it, if a girl at Wellesley is discovered drinking, she will be expelled.

"We do not anticipate having to make any precautionary legislation but we shall meet the occasion determinately if it arises.

"We do not feel that the Wellesley Book of Laws needs to contain mandate against drinking any more than against immorality."

SEES SALOON DANGER

In the opinion of Harry C. Ross, acting president and dean of Emerson College of Oratory, women will be better off out of the saloon. To this end he urges strict legislation. The girls there face expulsion if discovereed drinking.

"I feel strongly against permitting the old-time saloon to return for with its disguised return, there will be many more unpleasant features attached to it than before," he said. "The permission of women to frequent open-drinking emporiums is dangerous and it is my personal belief that legislation should be effected that will be protective for women.

DIFFERENT STANDARDS

"I have great fear of what prohibition repeal will mean to college girls. While I always felt that women should be permitted to do the same as men the time has come when we must limit strictly the province of open drinking.

"I am opposed to the open saloon as well as to the concealed bar. There should be, I feel, definite provision made for women in the new legislation affecting the return of the saloon or whatever they decide to call it. Whatever the other name, it will still of course be a saloon."

Expulsion will be the fate of any of the 600 girls at the Boston University College of Practical Arts and Letters if they are discovered drinking under repealed prohibition, Dean T. Lawrence Davis announced.

"Drinking never has been a problem with us," said Dean Davis, "and I do not expect that it will become one now. Drinking by Practical Arts and Letters' girls has never been countenanced by college authorities.

"Girls caught drinking face expulsion."

Lindy Quaffs Wine in Geneva Toast

Geneva, Nov. 9 (AP) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh received an old-timee reception of official toasts and cheering crowds today.

The famous American flying pair, who flew here frfom Rotterdam yesterday, were officially received by members of the national and city governments in the historic Alabama room of the City Hall. Lindbergh drank a glass of champagne and Ann was handed a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Three Petting Parties Too Much for Spying Spouse

A crowded Salem Probate courtroom today got its share of thrills as William T. Gavin, a motorman, took the stand to describe three amorous encounters between his wife, Annie, a beauty parlor operator and David Eigner, a Lynn insurance broker, which Gavin swears he saw.

He is suing the wife he married in August, 1926 for divorce, charging her with being unfaithful. He also has a $25,000 alienation of affections suit pending against the broker, who is named as corespondent in the divorce action.

Gavin said since his separation from his wife, he has been living in Peabody, while she stayed with her mother in Lynn.

Nevertheless, he went to Lynn after finishing work at 10 p. m. Saturday, April 15, only to find his wife out. Walking along Oak st. near the Lynn woods, he says he came upon her and Eigner in a parked roadster. They did not see him.

He found them at the same secluded spot a week later, he said. And, waiting still another week, he returned to the spot with a private detective and the latter's wife, and all three witnessesd a repetition of the scenes of the previous two Saturday nights.

CONANT CHOICE QUESTIONED

The qualifications of Prof. James B. Conant for the presidency of Harvard University are discussed somewhat doubtfully in The Bystander, a new magazine published in Boston, which appeared on the news stands today.

John R. Tunis says of Mr. Conant:

"Any account of the new president of Harvard would be incomplete if it didn't take into account the fact that his training has been largely in a laboratory and not in a rough and tumble world of business.

"Whether this scientist, cool and level-headed as he is, can swing a job of this magnitude, is something time alone can tell. His reputation is international. But it is that of a scientist. One is forced to wonder whether the man who was at home in a laboratory in Boylston will be equally at home in that big chair in the faculty room in the university. In short, whether the new president of Harvard isn't just another good scientist gone wrong."

The Bystander, a smart magazine of the "New Yorker" type, is to be published fortnightly.

TAX PAYMENTS SHOW GAIN

Tax payments showed an increase of nearly $1,000,000 for the past two months, as compared with the same months last year, according to Joseph P. Carney, internal revenue collector.

Figures made public today show September and October collections totalling $2,574,389, compared with $1,612,381 for the same months in 1932.

The excise tax on gasoline brought in $439,369 for October. The tax for telephone and telegraph amounted to $163,265.

Theater patrons swelled collections to $69,893 in October and on free admissions the tax was $6116

FARLEY TO LEAD BOSTON DRIVE

Appointment of John Wells Farley, well known lawyer, to act as general chairman of the 1934 Emergency campaign, was announced today by Arthur G. Rotch, chairman of the Citizens' committee which initiated the move to raise $4,500,000 to maintain more than 100 Boston charitable institutions.

Farley was associated with Robert F. Herrick, last year's general chairman, as vice-chairman of the industry and finance division of the drive.

Farley was born in Brookline in 1878. He attended Roxbury Latin school, M. I. T., Harvard College and the Law School. In addition to his law practice and war time service as a major on the general staff of the A. E. F., he has served as secretary of the first finance commission.

Filipino Women Get Right to Vote

Manila, Nov. 9 (AP)—Women were extended the right to vote in the Philippines after Jan. 1, 1935, in a bill passed today shortly before adjournment o fthe Ninth Insular Legislature.

Filipino women will be the first in the Far East to enjoy the right of the franchise.

Jewish Drive Reaches Big Business, Professions

Workers in the Associated Jewish Philanthropies campaign for $578,160 will devote today to a determined canvass of the business and professional districts of the city in an effort to increase their quota.

The addition of $21,295 yesterday swelled the total funds thus far secured to $336,628. Campaign officials said this figure represents sufficient funds to support the 18 relief and welfare agencies of the Association for the seven-month period from Oct. 1 to next May 1.

Today's intensive drive opened with a breakfast meeting at 8:30 a. m. at campaign headquarters. After the breakfast the volunteer workers started to canvass the city.

Tonight a meeting of the Dorchester district workers will be held at their headquarters in the Jewish Welfare Center, Bradshaw st., at 8 p. m.

Tomorrow's report luncheon meeting at campaign headquarters is expected to be most important. Gov. Ely is scheduled to appear as the principal speaker.

At yesterday's meeting Mrs. Hyman Freiman, chairman, announced that the team totals of the women's division were now $85,785. The addition of $354 brought the total of the Newton women's team to $1887, placing them "over the top." Other additions by women's teams were Brookline, $2546 and Dorchester, $647.

Other teams reporting were: Food, $1166; shoe and leather, $1555; women's wear, $2216; real estate $2388; house furnishing, $512; insurance, $471, and cleaners and dyers, $432.

Suicide Directs Relatives to Body

Port Clyde, Me., Nov. 9—William M. Brennan, 76, treasurer and manager of the St. George Water Co., committed suicide by tying himself to a dock at Marshall's Point, a summer colony, and jumping overboard. He left three notes in his home declaring his intention to end his life. One of them directed where his body would be found. Brennan had been despondent because of ill health.

Roxbury Legion to Conduct Dance

The 15th annual Victory ball of Roxbury Post No. 44, American Legion, will be held Friday evening in the Intercolonial bldg., Dudley st., Roxbury, it was announced today.

Proceeds of the event are to be used for the post's distribution of Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, and for the care of members confined to hospitals or in need.

Notables at Opening -:- Of Horse Show

GENE TUNNEY MRS. WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST ARTHUR BRISBANE

Opening of the national horse show in Madison Square Garden last night attracted a notable assemblage of spectators. Among them were Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, wife of the publisher; Arthur Brisbane, chief editorial writer of the Hearst newspapers, and James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion boxer of the world.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO CHARLES

Henry S. Smith, 46, of Lake Shore drive, North Scituate, narrowly escaped death today when his car plunged from Memorial drive, Cambridge, into the Charles river.

The auto plunged down the 15-foot embankment at Ash st. and came to rest beneath the surface in eight feet of water. Smith had swerved it to avoid a "road hog."

He managed to get out of the submerged car by smashing a window, but suffered severe lacerations of his hands, arms and head, as well as from immersion. He was taken to Cambridge City Hospital, where he must remain for at least 24 hours.

Metropolitan police, who are seeking the other car, will remove Smith's auto from the river later today.

Boston Police Get 'Tin Can' in N. Y.

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Peter Kelly, 26, known to Boston police as "Tincan Kelly," for his skill at ripping safes, underwent an examination in the police lineup today because he could not keep away from the bright lights.

Just paroled from a Massachusets penitentiary, where he was sent in 1928 for a $500,000 securities theft from the Shawmut Bank of Boston, Kelly was at Broadway and 47th st. last night when someone said, "Hello, Kelly," and laid a hand on his shoulder. It was Detective Sergt. James Crowley of the Boston police department, who, with Detective Sergt. Thomas J. Conatey, had been sent here on another case. With them were Detectives Levine and Morrissey of the safe and loft squad.

Kelly was taken into custody in connection with a safe-ripping job in Hull, Mass., last September. He denied the charge. He was held pending the arrival of a warrant from Boston. He gave as his address 36 "O" st., So. Boston.

Mother, Who Killed Two, Found Insane

Waterbudy, Vt., Nov. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin Fisk, who killed two of her three children by poison was back in the state insane hospital today, apparently faced with the likelihood of spending the rest of her life there.

She was brought before the grand jury at Chelsea yesterday and a no bill was found against her by reason of insanity. While at Chelsea she was allowed to talk with her only remaining child. The tragedy which cost the two lives occurred last August.

Court Officer, 83, Collapses on Duty

Just as a jury was filing out in a Suffolk court room Court Officer Oscar Strout, 83, collapsed where he stood yesterday and was carried out on a stretcher. He was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, where physicians said he was dying from a hemorrhage.

Strout, who lives on Wendover st., Dorchester, had collapsed in a courtr oom once before this year. He is the oldest court officer in the city.

COURT APPEAL CONSIDERED BY NICHOLS MEN

Advisers Propose to Seek New Vote in North End

A possible Supreme Court appeal is being considered today by legal advisers of former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols in addition to the recount of ballots in Tuesday's municipal election, which is scheduled to be started next Wednesday.

Both Nichols and his victorious opponent, Mayor-elect Frederick W. Mansfield, have asked for a recount in the unusually close race, in which a plurality of 2397 votes was the margin of victory.

The court appeal, however, would be independent of the recount. It would ask for a special election in three North End precincts, where voters were allegedly allowed to cast their ballots for a full hour after the specific time set for closing the polls.

The final hour for filing the necessary papers for a recount is 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Councilor Joseph P. Cox of Ward 20, West Roxbury, who, on the face of election returns, was defeated by James A. Finley by a margin of several hundred votes, today applied for recount petitions.

Recount petitions also were being circulated today by Councilor Thomas M. Burke, of Ward 17, Dorchester, who on the face of returns was defeated by 600 votes by former Councilor Robert G. Wilson, Jr.

Meanwhile the sealed ballot boxes remain locked in the sub-basement vaults, under the election commission's offices, guarded not only by police, but by private watchmen of the Nichols and Mansfield forces.

The request for state police at the recount is expected to be refused by Gov. Ely as unnecessary.

Tipsy Driver War After Dec. 5 Asked

Swift and severe punishment for drunken drivers was advanced today as the only real cure for the increase in this traffic hazard likely to come with Prohibition repeal.

Speaking over radio station WBZ, under the auspices of the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety, Eliot Wadsworth, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, made this suggestion today.

"Upon those who fail to control themselves and so make themselves a menace on the public highways," he said, "the community certainly has a right and a duty to administer prompt and effective discipline."

He advocated revocation of licenses as an effective curb.

Hartford Man Wins $6500 Damage Claim

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 9—Thomas W. Walsh of Hartford, Conn., has been awarded damages of $6500 by a jury in Federal District Court because of injuries he suffered July 12 when his auto was in collision with a car driven by Louis Segale of Rutland, the defendant.

SPRAGUE URGES STOCK BANS ON BANKERS

Warns if the Exchange Does Not Act, U. S. Government Will

The New York Stock Exchange must pass a rule forbidding brokers to accept margin accounts from bank officials or face the fact that such a regulation will be forced on it by the government, Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, financial advisor of the United States Treasury, today told the 500 bankers gathered at the Hotel Statler for the fourth New England management conference.

Such a rule is now in effect against bank clerks in New York, he said, and the London Exchange has extended it to all persons connected with a bank.

Dr. Sprague, who went from Harvard to the Bank of England and was called on by the present administration to become one of its leading monetary advisors, was the principal speaker.

In discussing recent legislation and banking conditions, he said the deposit insurance plan, which goes into effect Jan. 1, is sure to increase confidence and make credit more readily available.

Walter S. Bucklin, Shawmut Bank president, acted as chairman and introduced Prof. Sprague.

Also among the speakers was Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, who outlined a model bond portfolio for the average New England bank.

Benjamin Anderson, Jr., economist for the Chase National Bank of New York, and Atty. Arthur Dean discussed legal aspects of the securities act. All speeches were followed by general discussions.

5 INDICTED IN SOMMER CASE

The Middlesex County grand jury today handed four murder indictments to Judge Walter L. Collins in the killing of Adolph Sommer, Cambridge inventor and manufacturer, on Oct. 20.

The indictments name James Deshler, Marshall Bowles, John Doe and Richard Roe.

Marion Blenkhorn was indicted as an accessory after the fact. Deshler was also indicted for armed robbery of $600 from James Burnett at the White Cross Laundry, C lar st., Somerville, Oct. 7.

Meanwhile, James F. Deshler, awaiting trial for the murder of August Sommer, aged Cambridge chemist, was taken today to Charlestown court. He was arraigned on a charge of having a part in the hijacking of a truck of the D. S. Woodbury Co., from which cigarettes, worth $6500, were taken Sept. 22.

Deshler pleaded not guilty.

Judge Sullivan set bail at $100,000, and held Deshler for the Suffolk county grand jury. He was returned to East Cambridge jail because of the Middlesex county payroll murder charge against him.

NEW RIOTS AT MINES FEARED

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—Tenseness pervaded the anthracite strike area today after riotous scenes which drew a proclamation from Sheriff Kniffen ordering discontinuance of all public demonstrations.

After disorders yesterday in which a score of persons, including four state troopers, were injured and street cars stoned. The sheriff banned mass picketing.

The strike, called by a new union of miners who broke with the United Mine Workers of America, centers chiefly in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties.

Leaders claim 20,000 men are on strike but other sources put the maximum at 14,000.

Hope for settlement rests with the National Labor Board in Washington.

Woman Struck by Auto

Mrs. Mary Lord, 50, wife of Robert Lord of 254 Western ave., Brighton, while crossing the street in front of her home, was struck and knocked down by an auto owned and operated by Frank M. Stuart of 23 Coolidge rd., Brighton.

Ford to Enforce Despite Repeal

Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment will continue here despite the action of 37 states in voting to repeal it, it was announced today by U. S. Atty. Francis J. W. Ford.

"It is our duty to prosecute violators of the law. The prohibition law is still on the books until officially repealed," Ford said.

By this he meant until ratification of repeal on Dec. 5.

"Even when the law is repealed those who have violated it and who are still awaiting trial will be prosecuted."

Ford said he was not aware of the action taken by the U. S. attorney in New York, who declared that the 18th amendment was officially regarded as repealed. In New York parole is possible for those whose offences were only against the 18th Amendment and not against any other law.

Joffre's Body to Rest 'Neath Own Trees

Paris, Nov. 9—The body of Marshall Joffre, who died Jan. 3, 1931, has been taken from the Invalides to his old home in Louveciennes for burial, as he wished, under his own chestnut trees.

DUCE TO ALTER CAPITAL PLAN

Rome, Nov. 9 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today asked the chamber of deputies to approve a decree whereby the government may guarantee and participate in stock issues of private companies and guarantee the principal and payment of dividends to stockholders.

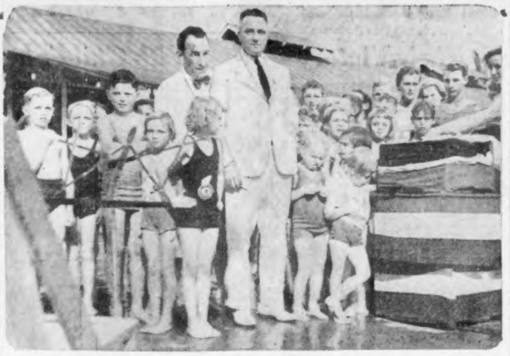
The proposed law would transform the whole industrial capitalizing system of Italy, and is intended to guarantee dividends to stock subscribers regardless of the companies' conditions.

If the company is profitable, additional dividends will be added.

The government will operate through the Industrial Reconstruction Institute which is similar to the American Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

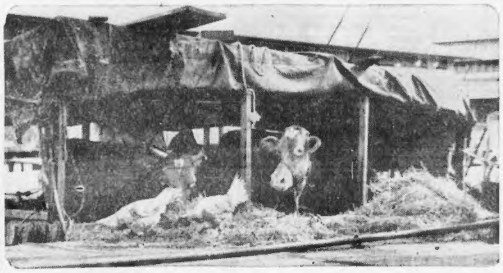
Mussolini said in his report the decree was designed to "re-educate the investor to participate directly in stocks of productive activities through opportune investments which assure him the worth of his investment; protect struggling companies from speculative maneuvers, and prevent companies which are remaining on their feet from being absorbed by over-large trusts."

Children Fete Byrd -:- Milkshakes at Pole



DISHES FOR ADMIRAL

Admiral Byrd was presented with a set of dishes by the children of the Canal Zone when his Polar expedition stopped at Balboa for supplies last week. The arrival of the flagship was made a holiday in the zone. Making the presentation were the members of the famous Juvenile Swimming Club. Admiral Byrd very graciously accepted the gift and escorted the children over the ship.



MILKSHAKES WILL BE FRAPPE

If milkshakes become monotonous from these three cows aboard the Jacob Ruppert, the Byrd flagship, the expedition is at least assured of fresh beef during part of their two-year stay in the Antarctic. The cows are reported quite content with their lot as the flagship is approaching the equator on her way south to the Rosi sea, where the debarkation will take place. (Int. News Photos.)

4 AWAIT TERMS IN ARSON PLOT

Defendants in the Waltham arson case and alleged extortion from Howard B. Peterson, will be sentenced today in Middlesex Superior Court.

Four of the defendants pleaded guilty after Dist.-Atty. Bishop had nol prossed a number of charges against them.

Ignazio Brundo pleaded guilty to two indictments charging extortion. Geore Butler pleaded guilty to four indictments charging extortion from Peterson. Barry Noonan pleaded guilty to four charges of extortion, and Vito Pascone entered a guilty plea to the charge of setting fire to the Peterson icehouse to defraud insurers.

Peterson, who was charged with conspiracy to procure the burning of the icehouse, maintained his plea of not guilty. He turned State's evidence at the trial.

U. S. Age Limit 53 for Typist Exams

Maybe life begins at 40 after all. Uncle Sam today took back all the nasty things he said, about not hiring any stenographers who have lived two score years. In fact, he pushed the age limit back 13 years.

The Civil Service Commission today announced it has postponed the time limit for the filing of applications for the stenographer and typist examinations for departmental service in Washington and field service outside Washington to Nov. 30, so that persons who have reached their 40th, but not their 53rd birthdays may file.

The time extension applies only to persons between these ages as they were barred under the original announcement. For younger persons the lists closed Tuesday.

B. U. Theologians Have 'Open House'

Boston University's school of theology conducted open house last night. More than 250 guests inspected the school buildings guided by the new class officers.

The newly elected officers are: juniors, Ensworth Reisner, New York City, president; Rudolph L. Samuelson, Stromsburg, Neb., vice-president; seniors, president, Ralph E. Dodge, Terrill, Iowa; vice-president, Paul E. Hann, North Salem, N. H.; secretary-treasurer, Dale C. Stockhouse, Hinsdale, N. H.; middlers, president, George A. Warner, Santa Ana, Cal.; vice-president, Donald R. Boyd, Evanston, Ill.; and secretary-treasurer, Clair M. Cook, St. Paul, Minn.

Graves Desecrated by Mired Autoists

Desecrators of the graves of Civil War veterans in the National Sailors' Home cemetery on Fenno st., Quincy, who ripped down crosses and used them to move a mired auto, are being sought by police. The car, with New York registration, and believed to be stolen, was abandoned by its oc-

OFFICER SAVES 13 IN FIRE

Thirteen persons, three of them children, were rescued by police and firemen in a fire in a Charlestown rooming house and firemen also extinguished a rekindling of the Long Wharf blaze without damage early today.

The Charlestown blaze, which broke out in the second floor of a three-story rooming house in Seaver st., was discovered by Patrolman Harold J. Griffith. He sounded an alarm and then rushed into the building.

He found Louis Canty, 27, sleeping on a bed in the room where the fire started. He aroused him and assisted him to the street. Firemen reaching the scene aided Griffith in escorting eight lodgers, the housekeeper and three children to the street.

5 POLICE GIVEN VALOR AWARDS

Five police officers were today recipients of commendations, and three of them were given three days off by Commissioner Hultman for meritorious work. Patrolman John F. Hourihan of Warren ave., station was commended and given a vacation for capture of two men who smashed a window in a downtown store and stole overcoats.

Patrolmen John J. Dever and James F. Wilson of the same station received praise and vacation for valor in rescuing two men from Fort Point channel. Patrolmen Frank W. Murphy and David A. Richards of Jamaica Plain station were commended for capture of an auto thief.

YD Vet Dies of Self-Inflicted Shot

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9 (AP)—Harold M. Berrie, 36, an adjuster for a local insurance company, died today of what police said were self-inflicted wounds. He was shot in a Manchester hotel on Monday.

He served overseas with the 103rd infantry, Yankee Division. At one time he was state adjutant of the State Association of the YD Division.

Farm Strike Torch Razes Third Railroad Bridge

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 9—Further destruction of property was reported in the farm strike today.

Another railroad bridge—the third since the "war" for higher prices started—was destroyed by fire early today. The bridge, the property of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, was situated a mile south of Portsmouth.

Sheriff Jensen of Shelby County blamed farm strikers.

The little pigs, as well as the big ones, continued to move to market, however, as farm strike pickets abandoned the highways.

Backers of the anti-selling movement sponsored by the National Farmers' Holiday Association as a means of getting higher prices for farm produce, pushed the organization of civil committee pledged to uphold efforts of peace officers.

"We're going to back the Sheriff up 100 per cent," was the sentiment of a meeting at Le Mars when Plymouth County farmers gathered to organize a law and order league. Many said they were members of the Farmers Holiday Association but were opposed to forcible blockading of highways.

They voted to give the Administration Farm Relief Program a "fair trial."

Other sections of the midwest were quiet.

Brand Is Urged for Parents Who Let Young Drink

By PEGGY DOYLE

There may be those who exult at the voiding of prohibition, but be sure not to include Rep. Clarence S. Luitwieler of Newton. The representative is careful to announce that he is in no sense a fanatic and that he has had nothing to do with the establishment of prohibition in this country.

Further, he has not talked about the subject in an aggressive way, either "pro" or "'peal," until he asserted that "parents who encourage their children to drink ought to be branded." He was the speaker at a meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts.

To be perfectly frank, and Rep. Luitwieler is good at it, he sees in Repeal the greatest menace this country has ever known.

"There is no such thing as moderation. When liquor is easy to get, it is inevitable that the women and children will come last and the satisfaction of his thirst will come first with the working man and his pay check. Though they will call it a tavern, we'll have the old saloon back, only it will be worse. They will have chairs, and a child knows that a man can get drunker sitting down than standing up to the bar."

Motorcyclist Killed

Portmouth, N. H., Nov. 9 (AP)—Robert Wilson, 23, and married, died today a few hours after he had been hurtled from his motorcycle into the highway as he lost control of the vehicle rounding a curve.

BETTER SIGHT

Light from a torchiere lamp is soft and restful. There is no glare—no eyestrain. That is because the light is directed upwards, then reflected back by the ceiling, spread evenly and thoroughly over a large area.

In your library or den, or in a corner of your living room, you get the impression of a flood of sunlight—without the glare.

There is some favorite spot in your home that needs the shadowless light of a torchiere. We show you here two models now on display at the Edison Shops.

The Keyhole on the News

Personalities

Young Walter Mansfield, mayor-elect's son in the sophomore class at Harvard law school, was not the only anxious waiter for results of this election day.

At one side of him, at lectures, has sat the son of defeated Mayorality Candidate O'Brien of New York. At the other side, has sat John Curry, Jr., son of the temporarily discredited Tammany chieftain.

* * *

Chance Meeting

And Mayor Mansfield's wife met him, the first time, under unusual circumstances, she revealed yesterday. Mansfield, a high school student then had a friend who operated an electric shock machine at an East Boston church fair of that era. It was the habit of Mrs. Mansfield, and other young women, to attend the church party. She noticed tall, lean Fred Mansfield especially because he "couldn't seem to stand the electric thrill."

Peerings

Patrolman Al Bradbury of Fall River, now holds the reputation of being that city's favorite police officer. As far as newspapermen are concerned. During the recent Tiverton oil fire, he entertained tired Boston reporters at a Fall River hotel, with his really fine singing voice . . . Michael J. Murphy recently ran for mayor of Lynn, but to no avail. Mike is a former street car conductor. Now he knows how the early morning street car chasers felt when they missed his trolley . . . Louise Mulligan and Nellie Kelley, high school teachers, keep in trim by afternoon tennis matches at the Malden courts. When they don't keep the kids after school, of course . . . Sammy Araf, investigator at the Income Tax Bureau, is a former two-fisted professional boxer of the old school. Which, of course, would make him an ideal bill collector today.

Jerry Callahan, at the spry young age of 70, holds the distinction of being Boston's oldest ex-newsboy. He is now a concessionaire at Nantasket Beach, owning a fair share of that resort's hot dog and orangeade stands. Jerry, by the way, was a boxing manager after his newsboy days. His most famous protege was Emergency Kelley . . . Austin J. Bono, Kneeland st., dress manufacturer, has a sweet tooth for candy bars containing caramels, nuts, and fudge . . . When Karl Moore recently played at the Garden's six-day bike races, his orchestra boys actually asked for a merry-go-round, so they could watch the races also . . . Officer Mooney Goodman, of the Charles Street Jail, is a former boxing kayo artist. Remember "Kid" Goodman? . . . Robert Pullo, expert hairdresser at Conrad's, is an accomplished violinist. Friends say he is good enough for the radio, after having had all that experience playing over the waves . . . Philip S. Sears, Boston sculptor, passed the bar some years ago. So he can fight your law cases, as well as model your bust.

Lost Teeth in Crash of Auto; $8000 Suit

Samuel Waldman of Peabody has filed suit for $8000 in Salem court against Abraham Leviton of Worcester for injuries and the loss of his teeth, suffered when the auto in which he was riding was struck by Leviton's car, through the latter's alleged negligence.

Waldman claims that he has been unable to follow his usual occupation as a result of the loss of his teeth and other injuries.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes — pimples — a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

MRS. BEAL FACES COURT AGAIN

The continued case of Mrs. Lida M. Beal, 44, arrested last week after a three-month search on three larceny charges, comes up in municipal court today.

Although the larcenies charged amount to $18,000, police claim the total amount of which she victimized women by a scheme in which she promised to pay 12 per cent interest is more than $60,000.

Last March she was released from Charles St. Jail after serving a one-year sentence for contempt of court in failing to comply with a court order to pay back $9572 to Mrs. Lavina Nelson, 75, of Appleton st., South End.

Natalie Carr Amazed at Fuss Over Flight; To Re-enter Convent

New York, Nov. 9—The Daily News says that Natalie Carr, 19, subject of an international search last August, is with her mother, Mrs. Emily Elliott Carr, in Greenwich Village, today.

Miss Carr has decided to wait until she is 21 before she again considers entering the convent of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec. Her mother is quoted as saying she wants her daughter to finish college before returning to Quebec.

Natalie Carr

Miss Carr, who left her mother's summer home in Clinton, Ct., three months ago, is quoted as saying:

"I had no idea there would be so much worry about my going to a convent. And I still don't understand why there is all this fuss."

Miss Carr was a former student at the Sisters of Presentation Convent, St. Hyacinthe, and as she avowed she had become a Roman Catholic it was thought she had returned to the scene of her early convent days.

Quebec and Montreal police, in response to the frantic appeals of her mother, investigated the circumstances of her arrival here, but would disclose nothing more than that she had entered a convent and was safe. As she was of age in her native state they could do nothing in the matter they said.

Miss Carr disappeared from her mother's summer home in Connecticut, and her movements were the subject of investigation on both sides of the line for many weeks. Lately the hue and cry quieted down and enabled her to leave Lewiston and return unnoticed to her mother's home.

Wilhelm Still Waits Call From 15-Year Woodpile

Berlin, Nov. 9—It's 15 years today since formerly His Imperial Majesty Wilhelm II, Emperor of Germany, went into exile.

They have been 15 years of wood sawing, of studying the origins of the World War, of investigations into archeology and of review of the theological doctrines which have been his life-long intellectual hobby.

They have been 15 years, too, of reiterated comment:

"I'll go back if my people call me," modified a few weeks ago by this:

"Chancellor Hitler is engaged with matters other than the restoration of former rulers; that is not a part of the Nazi program."

He walks daily. He holds services in his own chapel and sometimes takes the pulpit himself.

His short and limp left arm is a natal deformity. His right is strong. Until age forced him a year or so ago to give up his end of a cross-cut saw, he could tire out younger men who took the opposite handle.

He uses a combination knife and fork.

With that good right arm he learned to shoot a fowling piece skilfully. Leading cavalry drills, he held the reins in his teeth, waved a sabre with his right arm and guided his steed with his knees.

INSULL FEARS DEATH IN. U. S.

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
Universal Service Special Cable

Athens, Nov. 9—In the first extensive interview he has granted since he was freed, Samul Insull today declared that the real reason he has fought extradition to Chicago is that he would be afraid for his life if he had to return to face the thousands who lost fortunes and savings in the collapse of his utilities empire.

"Even though I woud stand a mighty good chance of acquittal, I would not consider returning," he said. "The U. S. has not shown me any consideration when it has hunted me like a criminal these past two years. They want a victim, but I am too much of a prize to be taken back so easily."

"I am sure my name will go down in the history of electrical progress and rebirth of gass.

"I am proud of my career as a financier, in view of recent events. What happened to me is no different from what happened to all American banks when they closed down."

Insull follows American politics closely. He described as "healthy" the opposition to the NRA.

New Senator Steps Into Sweet Problem

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 9—Joseph C. O'Mahoney, senator designate to replace the late United States Senator John B. Kendrick, has become involved in the sweetest and sourest problem of his state—sugar price stabilization. He was called into conference by Governor Miller of Wyoming and executives of neighboring States to aid in a plan for adoption of a price agreement.

Hull Awaits Dolan Action on Permit Revocation

Action by Director John C. Hull of the Public Utilities Division was looked for today, in connection with the broker's license of City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan.

Following a hearing to learn the cause of Dolan's failure to file a statement of his financial condition as a broker as of Oct. 1, Director Hull refused to grant a request that the registration be suspended.

He eventually agreed that counsel for Dolan, said to be ill, will file a written request by the city treasurer for cancellation of the registration today.

What action will then be taken by Hull, who is head of the securities division, was not revealed.

Storage Lack Robs N. H. Apple Growers

Voted for Self But Count Is Zero

New York, Nov. 9—J. Thomas McNerny, defeated candidate of the Liberty party for alderman, nurses what would appear to be a well-founded grievance.

The official count of his votes as reported by election inspectors is zero.

McNerny is not annoyed at losing. He even admits that he may not have polled the 10,000 votes he expected.

But when McNerny runs for an office he at least expects to get his family's six votes. And any candidate may be expected to depend on his own vote. So McNerny is the most voluble complainant at the Honest Ballot Association.

MALDEN BLAZE UNDER PROBE

Probe of an apparently incendiary fire at the Eastern ave. Baptist Church, Eastern and Hillside aves., Malden, was launched today by the office of the fire marshal.

The blaze was discovered by the janitor, who found crepe paper decorations for a fair had been heaped in the basement and ignited. When the janitor arrived the fire had burned itself out after charring timbers.

FOUR ARRESTED IN $600,000 KIDNAPINGS

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP)—Solution of at least nine kidnapings in which the victims paid ransoms estimated at as high as $600,000 was claimed by police today as they closed in on a gang and held four of its reputed members.

Every effort was made to maintain secrecy until word leaked out yesterday when a habeas corpus petition was served upon Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigation for the state's attorney, to produce Frank Souder, Benton, Ill., in court.

Gilbert replied in court that he could not produce Souder at once, but that kidnaping charges would be filed against him today.

The list of alleged victims of the gang, said by police to have been in virtual retirement since enjoying peak prosperity in 1930 and 1931, was topped by James Hackett, Suburban Blue Island gambler, kidnaped twice and forced to pay a total of $150,000.

Others are: William Urban, Peoria, Ill., gambler, reported ransom, $100,000; James Ward, Joliet, Ill., brewer seized in Chicago Heights, $45,000; John J. Lynch, official of the General News Bureau, which provides bookmakers with racing information, $50,000, three unnamed Aurora, Ill., gamblers, each reported to have paid $10,000, and two Iowa men, also unnamed, whose ransom payments were reported at $25,000 each.

Besides Souder others in custody include Julian Jones, St. Charles, Ill., whose confession authorities said aided in piling up evidence against the others, and Dean Swolley of Peoria, Ill.

CUBAN REVOLT SPREADING

archy, however, prevailed in Havana throughout the night as hoodlums took advantage of the absence of policemen to loot shops and rob passersby.

Many heavy casualties were feared today, however, as federals prepared to bombard the new rebel stronghold at Atares fortress with big guns.

AMERICANS MENACED

American tourists were among those affected by chaotic conditions prevailing during the night. The regular police force was hastily transformed into a military detachment and rushed to the scenes of rebel outbreaks, depriving Havana of its usual protection and allowing the lawless a free hand.

President Grau San Martin's declaration of a "state of war," automatically invoking martial law, was a routine measure of precaution.

Shortly after it was announced the rebels evacuated all their other positions and concentrated in Atares fortress, determined to remain there until their last man is killed.

Knowing that only their heaviest guns could blast the rebels from this historic stronghold, government forces began moving their big artillery into position for a terrific bombardment.

All Havana was paralyzed, awaiting developments. Traffic was suspended and stores were closed.

The rebels made their surprise move under cover of the early morning darkness, abandoning the San Ambrosio and Dragones barracks, which they had seized 24 hours before at the outbreak of the revolt.

BATTLE EXPECTED

Inside Atares fortress were more than 2000 rebel troops, their numbers augmented by hundreds of heavily-armed members of the ABC, revolutionary organization of great strength throughout the island.

Outside the fort government trucks, loaded with soldiers carefully alert for snipers on roof-tops, moved slowly through the streets in preparation for the big attack.

Col. Blas Hernandez, famous chieftain and one of the leaders of the present uprising, former Major Circo Leonard, and Rosendo Collazo announced from the fortress they would not surrender until the last man had fallen.

The rebels state:

"We have artillery, machine-guns, anti-aircraft guns and enough ammunition to last seven months, and also sufficient food.

"We will fight to the death."

Army sources expected the gunboats Patria and Cuba to join in the attack today, although artillery fire from Atares yesterday drove off and badly damaged the boats when they attempted to reduce Ambrosio.

Military rule prevailed in Santiago as forces of President Grau San Martin strove to preserve order as the revolt launched in Havana spread to the Cuban provinces.

Troops occupied the provincial palace. Detachments of soldiers were stationed at strategic points. Traffic and pedestrians were banned from the streets.

Indications were that the army was remaining loyal to the provisional government.

U. S. WARSHIP AT HAND

The cruiser Richmond and two destroyers of the American fleet were anchored in Havana harbor ready to protect American lives and property in the capital, but less protection was available for sugar plantations far in the interior. Some anxiety was felt lest the rebel fighting should cause damage to American-owned plantations and mills in these regions.

Commodity Buying Dodges Inflation, Says Expert

By LAWRENCE CHAMBERLAIN
New York Investment Banker and Advisor: Instructor in Schools of Finance; Author of Lay Works on Investments.

Copyright, 1933, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Nov. 9—The only means of escaping from the losses incident to inflation is by placement of one's liquid capital in commodities or in stocks representing equity ownership in commodities.

The average citizen is not qualified to do this successfully. Indeed, it is a question whether any but the most astute speculators with professional training are so qualified.

Perhaps if the average citizen decided to put a part of his liquid resources into a small home or into life insurance or into an annuity, he would have done about all he could to prepare for the uncertainties of the new economic program. Neither the life insurance nor the annuity would be a hedge against inflation.

It is my opinion that the present tendency in dollar devaluation will, for the time being, increase the number of persons in this country who have an income. In other words, it will stimulate employment. But the inevitable consequence of such devaluation is to decrease the average income of the population since costs rise more rapidly than wages.

Fixed incomes obviously suffer more than variable incomes from an inflatory policy. In any economic evolution or revolution some groups and classes must suffer in behalf of the majority. We must face the fact that in the progress of inflation those with fixed incomes suffer from the changing order.

With us, as in Germany, the so-called lower classes and upper classes may temporarily profit during a period of inflation, but the middle or white collar class of wage earners, salaried people and annuitants, clerks and teachers, probably will be ground between the two millstones of higher costs and lower wage values.

The degree of their hardship will depend on the degree of their organized solidarity as classes. However, if the ultimate result over a period of years or generations can be stability of personal earning power created by stability of purchasing power, all classes in the long run can benefit.

CURLEY, CARVEN TO SEE HOPKINS

Mayor Curley and Public Works Commissioner Christopher J. Carven will confer in Washington, Nov. 15, with Harry L. Hopkins, newly appointed Federal administrator of the civil works administration.

Hopkins extended the invitation today.

His message to the mayor read:

"The purpose of this agency is to provide employment to 4,000,000 persons, able and willing to work, now unemployed. The first task of this agency will be to provide regular work at regular wages for the 2,000,000 now on so-called relief work.

To put this program into immediate effect I am calling a meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 15, in Washington. Your presence is requested."

Gobron Bankruptcy Compromse Sought

Former Alderman Louis C. Gobron of Somerville has filed an offer to compromise his debts in federal court and not a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His action was described as a "petition in bankruptcy asking for, or offering, a composition before adjudication." It asks for a meeting to consider a 10 per cent composition. His schedules showed liabilities of $35,000 and assets of $8000.

NRA Orders Probe of Silk Mill Wages

Washington, Nov. 9—Dr. N. I. Stone, economist with the research board of the National Recovery Administration, has been designated by Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, to study the basic wage scales of the silk textile industry.

A large portion of the board silk workers of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England struck more than 10 weeks ago against minimum wage provisions of their code.

85 AWARDS AT HARVARD

Announcement was made today of the award of 85 honorary scholarships to Harvard undergraduates by the committee on scholarships.

Ten of the awards were John Harvard scholarships, made without stipend to students in the highest group of the rank list, who have not applied for other types of scholarship. Seventy-four are Harvard College scholarships, similarly assigned to students in the second group.

The remaining award went to George A. Philbrick, of Winchester, and is known as the Abbott Lawrence Scholarship, the honorary award for Engineering School students in the second group.

Students receiving the awards represent a total of 14 States, and the District of Columbia. Of this total 32 are Massachusetts residents, and two others are from New England homes.

NORMA SHEARER AND HERBERT MARSHALL HEAD PARAMOUNT'S CAST FOR 'RIP TIDE'

Radio May Star Fred Astaire in "The Gay Divorcee," His Recent Stage Success

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Nov. 9—The naughty boy of Hollywood, Charles MacArthur, just couldn't stand it any longer, so he took a plane, flew to Pittsburgh, and surprised Helen Hayes who was opening there in "Mary of Scotland."

Louella O. Parsons

Charlie neglected to mention to anybody that he was taking this little jaunt, and it's just as well because I doubt if he would have been able to get away. "Rip Tide," his original for Norma Shearer, goes into production within two weeks, and Charlie is A. W. O. L. at this time. Meanwhile, Edmund Goulding, the director, is tearing his hair.

Herbert Marshall, and incidentally here's an actor who grows in public favor with every screen appearance, has been borrowed from Paramount for one of the leading roles opposite Miss Shearer in "Rip Tide." Robert Montgomery has the other one.

* * *

SHOULD FRED ASTAIRE get himself a rousing cheer in the movie theaters after his appearance in "Flying Down to Rio," he will be told of "The Gay Divorcee" which Radio is trying to buy for him. You see it's this-a-way. Mae West played in "Night After Night" and who could have told that men, women, and children would cry for her. Imagine then Paramount's embarrassment not to have a story ready for her. Radio intends to have "Gay Divorcee," by Dwight Taylor (son of Laurette Taylor) ready and waiting in case Fred Astaire should do a Mae West but it is a mighty big world and up to now no star has followed in Mae's footsteps.

* * *

Alice Brady in Role

It looks very much like a case of you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours. Irving Thalberg succeeded in borrowing Herbert Marshall from Paramount and now Paramount is exacting its pound of flesh in the person of Alice Brady, who has been borrowed from M.G.M. She plays the desert woman, the one who finds the baby in "Miss Fane's Baby is Stolen"; and the part is dramatic and equal to that of Dorothea Wieck, the movie actress mother.

* * *

If W. C. Fields isn't twins or triplets, or both, how is he going to manage to make all the pictures Paramount is lining up for him . . . and without Baby Leroy, too? "You're Telling Me," by Julian Street, has just been bought for Mr. Fields who still denies that he takes milk bottles away from babies. Joseph Mankiewicz and Keene Thompson are writing the adaptation. Let it never be said that Fields' finishes one picture without stepping into another.

* * *

Maybe Eugenie Leontovich, wife of Gregory Ratoff, can give Lenore Ulric a few pointers on how to play "I Am An Actress." It seems Gregory took a day off and wrote the story of his life and romance with Miss Leontovich, all of which is incorporated in the story which Radio bought. Lenore Ulric, who is being brought on from New York by Radio will not only have the Ratoff play but Ratoff as well in the cast.

Snapshots of Hollywood

LUCRETIA BORI'S big Hollywood moment when she was permitted to see "Three Little Pigs;" the Bori gracious, delightful making her first Hollywood social appearance at the supper party of COUNTESS FRASSO; TULLIO CARMINATI, old friend, escorting her. FREDERICK COLLINS, author of "Glamorous Age," talking over his book with MRS. SAMUEL GOLDWYN; Sam spending the entire evening at the backgammon board trying to defeat COUNTESS FRASSO. GEORGE ZUKOR and SAM GOLDWYN looking in opposite directions. GLENDA FARRELL, head woman in ROBERT RISKIN'S life, lunching at Sardi's with HARVEY PRIESTER. JOAN CRAWFORD and FRANCHOT TONE lunching tete tete at the Cocoanut Grove. ROY D'ARCY, who once employed three butlers and owned six automobiles, now without a single butler and with only one automobile. "The Gay Nineties," still another night spot, getting GEORGE RAFT, MARJORIE WHITE, and others for the opening. Mrs. ANDY DEVINE, bride of two weeks, wearing Andy's orchids. JUNE COLLYER hurrying STEWART ERWIN home from the BERG-HYAMS tea to kiss the baby goodnight. KATHERINE HEPBURN leaving in a few days for New York. EDDIE CANTOR also on his way to Manhattan. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Two Pictures on Program

The Bowdoin Sq. today has a new bill of six standard stage acts and a double picture program.

"Stage Mother" is featured on the screen. The cast includes Alice Brady, Maureen O'Sullivan, Franchot Tone, Phillips Holmes and Ted Healy.

The associate picture is, "Before Dawn," a mystery story with Stuart Erwin, Dorothy Wilson, Warner Oland and Dudley Digges. The Our Gang feature is "Forgotten Babies."

From Grave to Gay :--: Run Screen Theme :--: in New Features

Elizabeth Allan gets the low-down on Richard Dix as hero medalist, in "Ace of Aces," at RKO Keith Boston.

Dorothy Mackaill's romantic approach finds Ed Wynn strangely timid in the Loew's State photoplay, "The Chief," the famous comedian's first in a long time.

Patty Gray, Boston's own light opera star, who sings Sunday night at the Public Library concert.

Fay Wray, as the heroine of "The Bowery," rowdy tale of ye olden days, featured at the Bowdoin, Sunday.

Artur Schnabel in Recital Sunday

Artur Schnabel, Austrian pianist, on his first recital tour of America, comes to Symphony Hall Sunday afternoon at 3:30, to give his only concert of the season here.

Regarded as one of the foremost living interpreters of Beethoven, Schnabel is devoting his entire program to the works of that master.

His program contains Beethoven's Sonata in B flat major, Op. 22; Sonata in A flat major, op. 110; Sonata in F sharp major, op. 78; Sonata in C minor, op. 13; Sonata in E sharp major, op. 109.

Tibbett Sings as Master

By MOSES SMITH

Lawrence Tibbett, who opened the series of Boston Morning Musicales at the Statler ballroom yesterday, is America's greatest male singer. A more sweeping statement than this would violate conventional chivalry.

The temptation is great to use superlatives about Tibbett's singing. Eleven o'clock in the morning is almost the worst time for effective vocalizing. Yet the baritone began his program with such a number as Handel's "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," in which the slightest break in vocal line is readily detected. But there was no break, the singing was so pure as to sound effortless.

In his varied and unhackneyed program, Tibbett had music of line and music of color, songs that were tense drama and songs that were as the repose of sleep. The program was in English, in which Tibbett—unlike many American singers—is very much at home. Even the German numbers, beautifully sung, were rendered in English translation.

Whoever the composer and whatever the style, Tibbett met the demands of the composition in all its varied aspects: in vocal tone, in musical phrasing, in clear enunciation of the text, and (when occasion arose) in dramatic feeling. We have all heard great operatic singers who, in beautiful voice, are able to move their listeners by dramatic fervor. But to find a singer who, while employing these arts, remains first of all a musician is rare.

Baton Expert at the Met

The Metropolitan stage tomorrow will feature Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, along with his entire company of radio and stage artists. It will be the most pretentious musical revue the theatre has presented in months. The cast includes Tom Waring, "Poley" McClintock, the Lane Sisters, "Babs," the "Three Smoothies," Johnnie Davis and Stuart Churchill. The production is being staged by Harry Gourfain.

Fred Waring

Fabien Sevitzky and the concert orchestra will play another of their popular musical impressions. Martel will offer his weekly organ treat.

Gayety Theater

PAIR OF QUEENS IN NEW ANDERSON PLAY

Helen Hayes in Role of Mary Stuart

By GEORGE HOLLAND

We hear that the two queens who are really pivotal characters in Maxwell Anderson's new play, "Mary of Scotland," do not meet until along toward the close of the last scene in the play. This is unusual dramatic construction, especially as the plans and ambitions of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scotland, and Elizabeth, Queen of England, are opposed to each other from the beginning of the play's action.

Helen Hayes, as the world now knows since the Anderson play's reception in Washington, is the beautiful Mary Stuart. Helen Menken plays Elizabeth. It is a woman's production, quite, as Theresa Helburn, executive head of the Theater Guild, has directed the piece.

Stanley Ridges has become so associated lately with Theater Guild parts, that it seems a remote period of his career when he was a shining light on the musical comedy stage.

Mr. Ridges' last leading part of importance on the musical comedy stage was in one of the Aarons and Freedley shows, "Funny Face," I think. He plays Lord Morton in "Mary of Scotland." Philip Merivale has the other important leading male role.

The coming of "Mary of Scotland" necessitates the moving of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds of 1933" to the Majestic next Monday night. Leslie's last season's success, "Rhapsody in Black," played the Majestic.

The Copley Theater will be relighted next Tuesday with a new play, "The Past of Anne Shrieves." The author is a Boston lawyer, William M. Blatt. Countess Elektra Rosanska will appear in the leading role . . .

NEW SOCIALIST MAYOR ROOFING

Bridgeport, Ct., Nov. 9 (INS)—Jasper McLevy, Connecticut's first Socialist mayor-elect, today was far from the scene of his recent successful political fight, as he took a well-earned vacation among Litchfield County hills.

The mayor-elect yesterday dropped the new role thrust upon him by voters donned overalls, and as plain Roofer McLevy journeyed to Southport to complete a roofing job.

Later he called on Mayor E. T. Buckingham, received his congratulations and discussed plans for his inauguration.

BAY STATE GETS TWO MILLIONS

Col. Charles R. Gow, State advisory engineer, yesterday announced at the Federal building that a total of $1,941,400 has been awarded by the Federal Emergency Administration at Washington as loans and grants for construction work in Massachusetts. The money is to be spent as follows:

North Adams, sewers, $374,000; Waltham, Metropolitan State Hospital, $642,000; Gardner, storehouse at Gardner State Colony, $106,000; Andover, Lawrence highway to run from Wilson's corner, North Adams to Lawrence line, $43,000; Westboro State Hospital, tunnel, $6000; Amherst, State College library, $238,000.

Athol, Reading and Pembroke, state police barracks, $122,000; Westboro, nurses' home in State Hospital, $257,000; Norfolk, new prison barn, $19,000, and power house, $67,000; Westboro State Hospital, storehouse, $17,000; North Andover water mains, grant only, $4300; Belmont power plant, grant only, $16,100.

This latest allotment makes close to $7,000,000 for public works in Massachusetts.

Scholfield Talks Before Large Science Audience

Taking as his subject, "Christian Science: The Science Which Discloses the Standard of Perfection," Ralph B. Scholfield, C. S., of London, member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, spoke this noon in Colonial Theater, under the auspices of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, to a large audience.

"In the parable of the tares and wheat," Mr. Scholfield said, "the chief actors in the harvest time are the reapers, and Jesus himself defined the reapers as angels. They separate the tares from the wheat, destroy the former and store the latter.

"In her textbook, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,' Mary Baker Eddy defines angels as 'God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect; the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and mortality' (Science and Health, p. 581).

"Here, then, Christian Science makes our work plain. It is to let the angels separate the tares from the wheat; or, to bring it down to our everyday experience, to let the thoughts of God separate in our consciousness the perfect from the imperfect, good from evil, life from death and disease.

IDEA OF PERFECTION

"In the treatment of sin it may help us to remember that sin implies not only erroneous action but also erroneous belief. The doctrine of the fall of man into sin is an erroneous belief, and arises largely from the allegory in the second and third chapters of Genesis.

"It is wise to remind ourselves that this story is an allegory and not history, and that there is a previous account of creation in the first chapter.

"If you will compare these two accounts side by side, you will see that behind the first account is the idea of perfection and completeness, and that behind the second account is the belief of mutability and evil, even the mixture of good and evil.

"There is never any hint that the man of God's creating in the first chapter has fallen. He is perfect and complete, in the image and likeness of God, and logically he must remain so forever.' '

Mr. Scholfield was introduced by Miss Lucia C. Coulson, C. S. B., second reader in The Mother Church.

8000 FACE SALE FOR '32 TAXES

Some 8000 parcels of real estate, including downtown property and homes in the residential districts, upon which 1932 taxes have not been paid, will be advertised for sale beginning Saturday, by the City of Boston in an effort to bring over $10,000,000 into the city treasury.

Unless this money is collected, it will be necessary for City Treasurer Edmund F. Dolan to borrow additional millions to meet the municipal payrolls, and other expenses.

It was also revealed that unless 1933 tax payments come in there may be a deficit of some $10,000,000 when Mayor-elect Mansfield takes office.

VICTIM SHIELDS MAINE WOMAN

Gardiner, Me., Nov. 9—Mrs. Mabel Morgan, 34-year-old shoe factory employe, is being held in $3000 bonds after pleading not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill, the result of the shooting of John Barry, 32.

She was arrested after Barry was found wandering in the street with bullet wounds in his head and leg. The wounded man, who refused to name his assailant, though in a serious condition, was given a chance to recover.

Police quoted Mrs. Morgan as saying after her arrest: "It's terrible the things one will do, but when you are driven to hell, you will do anything."

Sleeper in Theater Freed by Police

An unusually sound sleep was reported by Arthur McDonald, 21, of 7 Beadford street, Medford, when police succeeded in rescuing him from the locked Chelsea Theatre in Chelsea Square, early today.

McDonald said he fell asleep during last night's show, and woke up at 1:15 this morning.

His poundings on the door and shouts for help were heard by a route officer who notified Chelsea headquarters, and a riot squad was hurried to the theater in the belief burglars were working there.

WAGNER FIRM IN SHOE RULING

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Chairman Wagner of the national labor board said at a press conference that the board's decision in the Brockton, Mass., shoe controversy would remain unchanged and that there would be no rehearing of the case.

Earlier in the day John J. Mara, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, personally protested against the board's ruling that a new election by shoe workers be held under labor board supervision to reaffirm or repudiate the contracts existing between Brockton shoe manufacturers and the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

LOST SCHOONER REACHES PORT

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 9—Battered by storms and driven ashore twice, the lumber-laden schooner Haskell has arrived in Sydney harbor, two weeks overdue from Nyanza.

"It was the toughest trip I've experienced in some years," said Capt. Henry Polly who with his Handy Man Walter Lord had been given up for lost.

The schooner ran into heavy weather soon after leaving the Brae D'or lake port, and was driven ashore at New Harris. There she had been held up for several days and had just got started again when another storm blew her aground at New Cambrellton.

Any Person Who Has Reached "Middle Age" Should Know This

Authorities now tell us that one of the frequent penalties of middle-age is acid stomach. A rebellion, of the stomach, after years of faulty diet.

If you have Acid Stomach, you can easily trace it. Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," nausea are the usual indications.

To get rid of it, all you need do is this:

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; substituting one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid and get the same result.

Try It—You Will Be Amazed

Try this and, chances are, it will make a great difference in your life. For this small dosage of Phillips' Milk-of-Magnesia acts to neutralize the stomach acids that cause your distress.

After-meal pains and discomfort go. You feel freedom from dull headaches. That "afternoon fag"—you think is depletion or "nerves" disappears. You feel like another person.

When you buy, be sure to get the REAL article — Genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia, the kind doctors endorse. Always ask for it by the name PHILLIPS'—for all "milk of magnesia" is not alike.

THE SIGNS OF ACID STOMACH
Nervousness — Feeling of Weakness
Indigestion — Sleeplessness
Auto-intoxication — Mouth Acidity
Nausea — Sour Stomach
Loss of Appetite

WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE — 2 Teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—You can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, substituting one tablet for each teaspoonful directed above.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM
Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

CHARLES D. OSBORNES TO ENTERTAIN DANCE USHERS AT DINNER

'beacon hill'

By Betty Alden

THE DIGNIFIED OLD CHILTON CLUB on Commonwealth avenue was gay with the voices of youth yesterday when Miss Agnes Devons Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devens Osborne, of 417 Beacon street, received at a tea given in her honor by her very distinguished grandmother, Mrs. Barrett Wendell . . .

MARJORIE ENGLISH

The youthful debutante will be formally presented to society tomorrow evening at a ball at the Hotel Somerset given by Mrs. Wendell, at which affair Miss Emily Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jones of Springfield, will share presentation honors . . .

Miss Agnes wore a Chinese red crepe gown which set off her slender blonde beauty at her tea yesterday afternoon . . . Mrs. Wendell looked very proud indeed of her attractive granddaughter in a black satin appliqued gown . . . The Chilton Club was gay with autumn flowers.

Susannah Ayer, Marjorie English, Sally Curtis, Caroline Hunnewell, Beatrice Phillips, Nina Phillips, Virginia Taylor, Emily Dick, Rose Loring, Charlotte Denny, Betty Farley, Johanna Palfrey, Christiana Bartlett and Gertrude McGinley were among the pourers at the tea tables . . .

Also we glimpsed assisting Martha Rogerson, Mildred Carter, Isabella Gardner, Dorothy Harding, Griselda Higginson, Cynthia Hoar, Amy Lang, Margaret Stockton, Jane Frost, Dorothy West, Hetty Richardson, Emily Morison and Eleanor Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Reggio of Chestnut Hill are giving a dinner tomorrow evening for their daughter's friends before the Osborne dance, as are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wheeler for their debutante daughter, Molly Wheeler.

Benefit Held for Nursery Auxiliary

THE BRIDGE, LUNCHEON, FASHION SHOW AND sale for the South End Day Nursery Auxiliary which was held yesterday at the Copley-Plaza was a great success . . . the grand ballroom was prettily decorated with greens and rose-arbor arches and simply crowds of familiar faces were seen in the throng . . .

Mrs. Franklin Shaw in black velvet and ermine stood at the main doorway to greet the guests and Mrs. Frank Fayerweather, who was in charge of the flowers, was in the ever popular black with a red flower corsage . . .

Mrs. Wendell Taber was in charge of the "goodies" table, where sweetmeats, cookies, and even strawberries in boxes tempted a willing public . . .

Mrs. Henry Appleton Knowles looked charming in her autumn ensemble . . . she was bazaar chairman with Mrs. Edith Lawson as well as being the efficient president of the South End Day Nursery . . .

Mrs. Robert Estabrook in black velvet with saucy bow of snowy ermine under her chin was chatting with friends and we glimpsed Mrs. Charles H. Innes, Mrs. Malcolm B. French and Mrs. Adolph Leeds enjoying the fashion show which was the art of Mme. Samoff . . .

Debutantes Serve as Waitresses

SELLING CANDY WERE THE Misses Nancy Cairns, Betty Delano, Patricia Campbell and Dorothy Flanagan . . . and a group of this year's debutantes served as waitresses and modeled the attractive gowns . . . one gown was entitled the NRA gown, a bright blue crepe with shoulder arrangement of red and white, very fetching.

Mrs. Winthrop Adams

Quite the hit of the show were the two Astrachan dogs which were brought out on a lead by a debutante, Astrid Rice, who wore a black coat tirmmed with astrachan . . . a new note to have one's canine match one's fall costume . . .

Others noted were Mrs. John Sheppard, Jr., Mrs. Malcolm Jenny, Mrs. James C. Duane, Mrs. Winthrop Adams, Mrs. F. Harold Tolman, whose daughter Virginia was one of the prettiest mannikins . . . also Mrs. Horace Drinkwater, Mrs. William C. Keen, Mrs. Myers Whitcomb, Mrs. John R. Jennings, president of the Brockton Women's Club, and Mrs. Joseph Joyce Donahoe.

Notables Attend Morning Musicale

WE ENJOYED THE MORNING MUSICALE WHICH preceded the above luncheon at the Hotel Statler . . . Lawrence Tibbett is still our great favorite although he did not sing Mandalay and we thought his choice of numbers for a rainy morning uncomfortable . . . in fact, we would like to have a few words to say to the morbid person who wrote the Lullaby of Death . . . it was a dreary selection and we were glad when we got out into the sunshine . . . for the rain had ceased.

The usual perfumed and gardenia-ed crowd of chatting women arrived early for mid-morning coffee . . . so many different scents rise up like incense when they gather it gives one a sort of a religious feeling, like offering to the God of Music. A mischievous thought escaped us . . . would not these delightful and chatty ladies gather once a month at five dollars a ticket just to look each other over and impart the latest news . . . even WE find a fifteen minute intermission all too short to greet all the friends we know and we are sure there must be hundreds who would like to drift about to see who is out this morning . . . over a cup of coffee. Some bright person might inaugurate social buffet breakfasts . . . like a hunt breakfast and go hunting for bargains afterward.

Among the distinguished people present was Miss Gladys Fernandez from Cuba, house-guest of Mrs. Harold Cutler . . .

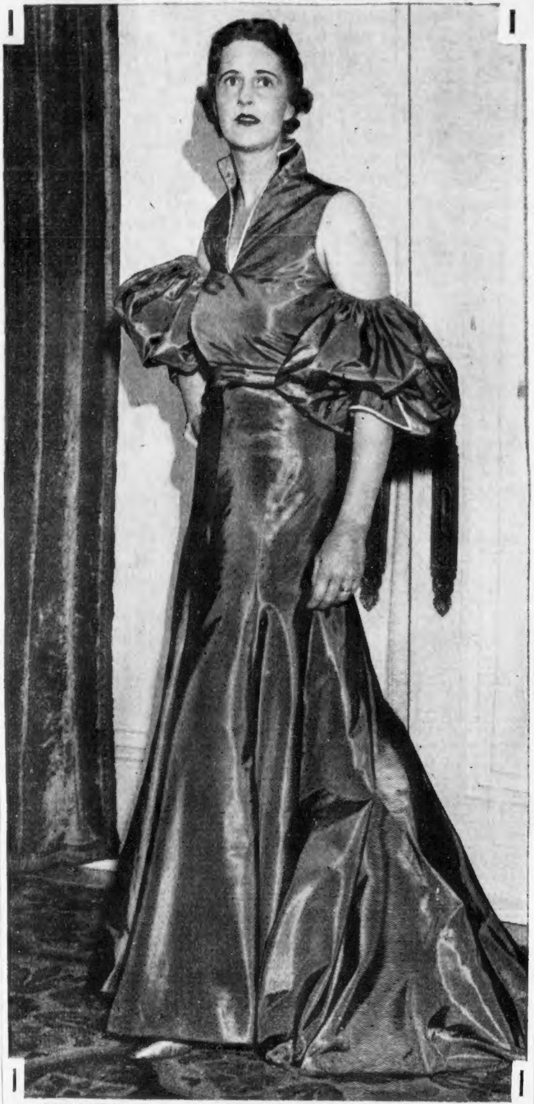
NRA GOWN -:- MAKES DEBUT



SOCIETY LEADERS who attended the bridge and fashion show which was held at the Copley-Plaza yesterday for the benefit of the South End Day Nursery Auxiliary approved the new NRA gown which made its first appearance. This gown, which was designed and created by Miss Rae Samoff, is of blue gros de londres and is lined with red, with a piping of red, white and blue, giving it the national color effect. It has a standup military collar and puffed sleeves which give the wing-spread idea of the eagle. The back is cut very low. Mrs. Charles F. Choate of Salisbury, widely known society matron, is shown modelling the new gown at the Copley-Plaza show. (Boston American photo.)

'the social whirl'. .

By Dorothy Whipple Fry

MRS. GASPAR BACON opened her charming home on Prince st., Brookline, for a sale of attractive articles made by disabled veterans of the World War. A more charming setting for the sale could not have been chosen. The house is full of atmosphere and its charm attracted many socially prominent people.

Mrs. Timothy Adamoski is one of the board of directors who attended the sale looking exceedingly smart in a black satin afternoon frock, and expressing her delight over the success of the sale which benefits so many disabled soldiers and sailors of the late war.

Mrs. Carol Swan

Mrs. Larz Anderson, also interested in the success of the shop was seen buying many of her Christmas presents at the sale.

Mrs. Carol G Swan, especially attractive in a soft brick colored wool frock with a brown Tyrolean hat that sported a gay feather, was there. She is working indefatigably for the success of the Tau Beta Show to be given at Whitney Hall in Brookline, on Nov. 17 and 18. This is an annual affair promoted by the ladies of Brookline to raise a scholarship fund for Brookline girls. Mrs. Swan informed us that at the present six girls were being maintained at Radcliffe by the scholarship funds.

Mrs. Robert Farrington doing some Christmas shopping, wore a smart little ensemble of black with her golden curls peeping from beneath one of those feminine and alluring little tip-tilt hats.

Mrs. George West, so feminine and dainty and always faultlessly garbed, arrived with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy West. The most outstanding thing about petite and dainty Mrs. West is her voice. Such a delightful little accent, and always beautifully modulated. Miss Dorothy West wore a soft tan outfit with a sporty checked hat of the Peter-Pan variety, feather and all, and a scarf to match.

Agnes Osborne and Emily H. Jones Feted

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES D. OSBORNE of 417 Beacon st. are entertaining at dinner tomorrow evening for the young men who will perform usher duties later in the evening at the dance which Mrs. Barrett Wendell is giving for Miss Agnes Osborne and Miss Emily H. Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Jones of Springfield.

The Hotel Somerset is to be the setting for the dance and the ushers dinner will be at the Osborne home.

Among the out of town guests who will be at the dinner are Miss Jean Drummond, Miss Elizabeth Emerson and Miss Lois Swan. Other young ladies bidden to dinner include Miss Susannah Ayer, Miss Mildred Carter, Miss Carol Crocker, Miss Emily Dick, Miss Marjorie English, Miss Cynthia Hoar, Miss Emily Morison, Miss Martha Rogerson, Miss Eleanor Shaw, Miss Barbara Young, Miss Marjorie Ann Curtis, Miss Elizabeth Dewey, Miss Christine Fuller, Miss Katherine Gaskell, Miss Ann Peterson, Miss Dorothy Pierpoint, Miss Elizabeth Swift and Miss Priscilla Mason.

Brittany Shop Workers at Luncheon

The volunteer workers who assist at the luncheon counter of the Brittany Coffee Shop throughout the winter season are the guests of the committee directing the shop at luncheon today, in the shop's attractive private dining room, immediately following the monthly board meeting of the Household Nursing Association, on Newbury street, under whose auspices the shop is maintained. There will be a general discussion of shop matters and Mrs. Carl Dreyfus, chairman, will speak, giving a review of the past year's activities.

Assisting Mrs. Dreyfus as hostess are Mrs. Henry M. Channing, Mrs. David J. Evans, Mrs. Chandler Gifford, Mrs. Dudley N. Hartt, Mrs. Howard L. Rogers, Mrs. Charles L. Scudder, and Mrs. Charles A. Newhall. Luncheon guests include Mrs. Joseph R. Coolidge, 3d, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Henry O. Houghton, Mrs. Henry D. Tudor, Mrs. H. Appleton Knowles, Miss Margaret Long, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Miss Lucille O'Malley and Mrs. Howard Barnett.

Katherine C. Gray to Give Program

Miss Katherine Cunningham Gray is giving a program of songs at the Sunday evening concert in the Boston Public Library next Sunday. Accompanied by Mr. Hans Ebell, who will play a group of piano solos, Miss Gray will sing some Spanish songs of DeFalla, whose works she specializes in, songs of Schumann, Kramer and a song by Mr. Ebell, entitled "Little Grass."

The concerts at the Library are free to all lovers of music and no tickets are required.

BACK-TO-NATURE REFRESHING TO BEAUTY -:- GAIETY BIDS PROHIBITION FAREWELL

Camping Trip Has Much to Offer

By Therese Deschamps

HAVE YOU tried camping in the fall and winter? It is a sure cure for ennui. Leave all of your troubles on the doorstep in the cellar or behind the office files—collect a jolly crowd and go to the country, the woods or reopen the summer bungalow (if you have a couple of fireplaces).

You will dress warmly and everybody will have to work. Go natural as to makeup, but protect the skin with good rich creams. If you are fortunate enough to have a hunting license don't take too much food. If the hunters fail to bring back pheasant or wild duck, feed 'em beans. Usually insures a rabbit for the griddle at least.

More Exercise

And what has all of this to do with beauty? Plenty. You will get more exercise than you may think possible. Just try collecting enough wood to keep the fires cheery and bright for two days.

Some bright soul may suggest hunting bayberries for the bronze bowl back home. That is as good a way as any to digest a camp breakfast.

If you are near the sea you might try digging some [illegible] clams for your waistline. They make a very delicious luncheon incidently.

Sunday evening, after you have packed the duffle bags and had a last duck sandwich it is time to ease back home—but you will find the trouble you left there has disappeared.

Monday Rosey Pink

Monday morning she is rosy pink instead of the usual [illegible] You feel great—and can hardly wait for another week so you can go native.

One of the most ardent campers we know says she [illegible] climbing into her rough [illegible] and letting her nose shine because for two or three days she can anticipate all the luxurious bath salts and finger nail polishes in the world when she retreats to her shining tile tub.

Water Softeners

Speaking of tubs after camping we have discovered some be-au-ti-ful water softeners and some very refreshing bath powders and salts for the water that add their share of joy to the peace and comfort of [illegible].

We will be glad to give you this list and the prices if you will enclose a self-addressed envelope to Therese Deschamps, Boston Evening American.

Answer All Sympathy Notes

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1—I am a daily reader of your column and wish you would inform me as to the correct way to answer notes of sympathy one receives after losing a dear member of the family.

2—Should one answer the notes of sympathy received from different societies to which he belongs and how should the notes be worded? I am in doubt about answering these notes of sympathy received from missionary societies.

F.

1. We should acknowledge every note of sympathy sent to us, every tribute of flowers, every kind message of condolence, by writing a note, a short note, sincere note of appreciation of the thoughtfulness. Something like this:

Dear Mrs. Goodheart

You were most kind, most friendly, to send us such a loving letter, and we thank you deeply. And the beautiful flowers too brought us your sympathy and your understanding. I wish that we could tell you how much we appreciated both your message and your flowers.

Sincerely yours

2. The letters of appreciation to the societies would be worded about the same, and the letter would be addressed to the secretary, or to the person who sent the letter or the flowers for the society.

Daily Suggestion For Self-Improvement

If you want to know what books to read that are being the most widely discussed in the country, choose for your fiction "ANTHONY ADVERSE" by Hervey Allen, first—with "ONE MORE RIVER" by John Galsworthy running a close second. "VANESSA" by Hugh Walpole has third place. For non-fiction you have a choice of "LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY" or "MORE POWER TO YOU," both by Walter B. Pitkin. "POOR SPLENDID WINGS" by Frances Winwar—is third in the non-fiction class.

Perfume "Sniffed" at New Bar

By ANNICE BRINK

IN ONE OF the department stores smartly gowned women may be seen to step nonchalantly up to a bar. Yes, a bar—and there lean [illegible] attentively to the fragrant mixing going on behind [illegible].

[illegible] sound slightly scandalous and more than a little exciting? It is exciting really, but not a bit scandalous, because only perfumes are mixed at that bar.

And at the same store a royal crown of perfume was seen, that for complimentary allusion is well nigh perfect as a gift. The perfume was something rare and heavy, to be used discreetly.

If you'd like to know where the perfume bar is, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

WITH CLOTHES, as with furnishings, studied simplicity is one of the chief charms. Sports clothes are particularly adaptable to this alluring simplicity and for that reason I wear them wherever possible.

This year's fall sports wear is particularly attractive and is so varied in line and design that women of every type can find frocks that will enhance their individual charm.

I chose this fall sportswear model of the new ultra-smart yellow, crimson and black plaid because it is the epitome of charm and simplicity. The effectiveness of the model is achieved in the lightly fringed tie and the folded shoulders which focus attention and create a delightful underframe for the face and head of the wearer.

The color scheme carried out in the plaid is flattering to blonde and brunette alike, accentuating as it does the pale, clear skin of the fair woman and adding richness to the ripe coloring of her darker sister.

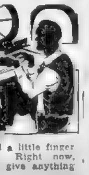
PANDORA TELLS YOU

Dear Pandora:

In your bag of tricks do you think you might have one that would exorcise the bane of my life? He's a man who has never held the slightest interest for me, but who has constituted himself the sharer of my Sunday evening snacks for years. I can't tell you how it started, but I promise you I never lifted a little finger to encourage it. Right now, though, I would give anything not to be a lady and to be able to raise a great big foot to [illegible] this noisome nuisance out of my otherwise cozy existence.



I adore a lazy, pointless, practically motionless Sunday. I need it after a week of [illegible] mental activity. But do I get it? Never in the five years that I've known this enemy to my peace and quiet. He's one of those rollicking, hearty, always a quip on the lip (not a laugh in a carload) hail-fellow-well-met individuals I detest. Just a male Pollyanna forever illuminating the corner where he be. Exactly at 3 every Sunday afternoon he drops in, acts coy about the contents of my refrigerator (always inadequate for his gargantuan appetite), and eats and talks me out of house and home. This probably sounds pretty petty, but I assure you if I don't [illegible] of my life he'll have me in the psychopathic ward.

Harvard Liberals Warned Not to Bother Cadets

President Conant of Harvard made it clear today that he would not permit the Harvard Liberal Club to embarrass 1200 West Point cadets by staging an anti-war demonstration on Widener Library steps, Saturday, during the hours the cadets will have "run of the yard" preceding the Harvard-Army game.

Harvard's private police made it just as clear that if the Liberals follow out the announced intention of a few and attempt to hold their demonstration without authority, there will be trouble for the Liberals.

The West Pointers will take over the yard at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The Liberal Club sought permission for its Widener [illegible] then. Today the club was told it [illegible] on Widener steps between 9 and 9.30 Saturday morning or at any other university building outside the yard at any time.

President Conant said:

"It is not possible to use the steps of Widener after 10 o'clock because the entire yard has already been assigned to the cadets. This is not a question of free speech, nor does it represent any judgment on issues raised by the Liberal Club. The courtesies of the yard have already been extended to the cadets from 10 until 2 and it would be obviously discourteous to schedule another event at the same place at the same time."

HULTMAN TO QUIT POLICE POST SOON, SAY FRIENDS

This Is Life

—By ROBERT E. ROGERS—

In common with a great many other people I have been thinking that the non-partisan theory of municipal elections causes more trouble than it is worth and that it might well be abandoned and a return made to the Republican-Democrat partisan system which obtains in state and federal politics.

Since Tuesday I am no longer sure that I am of that opinion. The non-partisan system seems to have vindicated itself, in that the election upset all the dope, eliminated the leading partisan candidates, and elected the man who seems, at this writing, to be distinctly not a party representative. In other words Mr. Mansfield seems to have been elected as a man, on a platform of personality and convictions, rather than as a cog in a machine. Certainly, the Good Government Association seems to have played small part in his election.

The organization votes went to Foley and Nichols, and the old-line, well-to-do Republican vote to Parkman. Mansfield seems actually to have gained the mythical non-partisan vote, including that of a large number of normal Democrats. Otherwise, it is hard to explain his election.

* * *

The non-partisan rule for municipal elections in Massachusetts is not easily defended. Like the Finance Commission and the single police commissioner, appointed by the governor, it is obviously the result of a determination on the part of what was once a normally Republican Legislature to save some remnants of party success in cities which are usually heavily Democratic. That, of course, was the situation in Cambridge. Equally so in Boston.

If one believes in Home Rule these three examples of state control must seem like unjust interference with the right of a city to govern itself. Furthermore whatever may be the advantages of the non-partisan election theory doesn't work in practice. In Cambridge, for instance, the election usually turns out to be the old-line struggle between the more conservative and well-to-do Republicans and the larger and more aggressive Democratic electorate.

When the Republican wins, it is usually because the propertied elements in the city are sick and tired of a long course of ineptness and misgovernment by the machine in office (as was the case when Russell was first elected) and if a Republican is re-elected it is because a sufficient number of normal Democrats prefer his administration to a return of the other crowd with all that it may imply. If a candidate were labelled Republican, the normal Democrat might hesitate to vote for him out of some lingering remnants of old-time party loyalty. The non-partisan label makes it easier.

There is one justification for the non-partisan idea in municipal politics. Although in national and state politics the lines of party division and party theory are thin and nebulous enough, nevertheless they do exist. In a way there are such things as Republican and Democratic principles. Or at least there were, until Mr. Roosevelt obliterated those distinctions and created for a time, a national party, like that which won so overwhelmingly in England a year or two ago. But next November we shall see Republican and Democratic issues being argued with a vigor to which for years we have been unaccustomed.

In the cities and towns, however, the party issues hardly hold. Municipal politics is the science of political economy. It is the science of good housekeeping, of keeping within a budget, of paying one's bills, of keeping a reasonable balance between employment and the welfare. Party alignment tends to be one of expedience rather than of principles. The personality and the ability of the candidate is more important than his national or state affiliations. He will be supported or abandoned by the labor vote, the municipal employes' vote, the tax-payers' vote, the bankers' and business men's vote, principally on the guess that he will support or will not support their interests. And to vote for a man's character and his affiliations comes as near to voting non-partisan as we can probably arrive at in our system.

* * *

In New York La Guardia's plurality was undoubtedly swelled by the votes of hordes of disgusted and frightened Democrats. The fact that a candidate was labelled Tammany, or Reform Democrat (Recovery), or Republican, or Fusion, did not matter so much as another question which was not partisan at all—that of New York City's solvency. The appeal to party prejudices, such as was made by McKee and Farley, probably hurt McKee rather than helped him. And it is doubtful whether the Republican support of La Guardia was the decisive factor in his success.

It is possible that in these troublous and uncertain days the non-partisan theory does accomplish something in municipal politics which a strict party alignment could not do. Mr. Foley and Mr. Nichols would agree ruefully. Mr. Mansfield has reason to be glad of the rule. The preliminary squabblings among hopeless candidates is perhaps only the dreadful price we have to pay for the final result. But there is no rose without its thorn.

HOMES COMBED FOR ROCKPORT SLAYER

1000 Residences to Be Searched by Many State Troopers

Rockport, Nov. 9.—State troopers started [illegible] each of the 1000 homes in this town today in their hunt for clues to the [illegible] of Mrs. Augusta Johnson, wealthy widow, at her Pigeon Cove home last week.

The decision to interview every resident of Rockport was announced after a conference between Assistant District Attorney John E. Wilson, State Police Lieut. Richard E. Griffin and Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Ralph E. Parker.

The dramatic plan, unheard of in the history of the Commonwealth, is just one more startling example of criminal investigation which has appeared in a case replete with unusual methods of attacking an admittedly difficult solution.

Blue-clad troopers began to arrive here last night and there has been a steady influx of men from barracks in the eastern part of the state. They will be assigned immediately and will be billeted at Town Hall and in homes of residents.

They have been ordered to ascertain the activities and whereabouts of every single person among the town's 3700 residents on the night of the crime, before and after the murder.

Included among those who will be quizzed by the troopers will be former U. S. Atty. Frederick H. Tarr, Judge Sumner D. York, members of the board of selectmen and many wealthy residents and well known artists.

COUNCIL WARS ON INFLATION

The official call for the ninth convocation of the New England Council at Hotel Statler Nov. 23 and 24 was issued today by Pres. Henry D. Sharpe. The chief purpose of the conference, he said, will be to crystalize sentiment against currency inflation.

"New England is fast becoming Federal District No. 1 for the execution of measures included in the U. S. economic recovery program," according to Sharpe.

"We are checking the progress in New England of various features of the national program. We are conducting a particularly searching inquiry into the effects of the NRA on New England industries."

Results of these investigations will be discussed at the conference. A preliminary survey of the attitude on inflation indicates that out of 215 replies only one favored the policy, Sharpe said.

Killer Grill for 4000 Framed -:- As Biggest Mystery Quest Begins

With state troopers looking on and guarding proceedings, officials began today the framing of questions and the completion of plans for the inquisition of all of the 4000-odd residents of Rockport. The law seeks to solve the mystery of "Who killed Mrs. Augusta Johnson in the dead of night in her lonely Pigeon Cove home and then made a pyre of her bed?" It is the first time in this state, possibly in the nation, that every resident of a community has been called upon to clear himself, or herself, of suspicion. Among authorities at the conference in the photo are Special Officer J. A. Burgess, State Detectives Joe Ferrari, William A. Murray and Michael Barrett, Assistant Dist. Atty. John E. Wilson, State Detective Richard J. Griffin and Special Officer J. H. Moody of Gloucester.

RACING CHARTS SEIZED BY RAIDERS

Turning from liquor raids for the time being, police of the Warren ave. station crashed into a building at Washington and Essex sts., arrested 20 men and seized thousands of horse race charts and betting slips.

The arrest of the 20 men, who appear in Municipal Court today, broke up two of the largest racing headquarters in the city, according to Capt. James R. Claflin.

Under Sergt. John L. Donovan, a squad of police broke down the door leading to the second floor of the building and found 16 men inside. Police said the wall were covered with railing lists, and three busy telephones transmitted bets to the bookmakers. The officers then went to the fifth floor of the building, where they found four men and similar equipment to that on the second floor.

While in the latter place Special Officer John Pimental answered a telephone, and posing as "Louis," booked a 50-cent parlay.

Harold Allen, 29, of Lucerne st., Dorchester, was charged with registering bets on the second floor. The same offence was charged against Abraham Talcovitz, 40, of Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, on the fifth floor. The other 18 men were held for being present where gaming implements were found.

"NOT A WINDOW TO BE LEFT UNLOOKED IN"

All inhabitants of Rockport will have answered the question, "Where were you on the night of November 1?" if state troopers do not find the slayer of Mrs. Johnson in the meanwhile. Every available state trooper has been ordered to the rock-bound town to conduct the slayer canvass in the 1000 homes. The troopers began their search in the cottages on the outskirts of the town, as shown in photo. (Boston American photo.)

SHOTGUN SQUAD HUNTS HIDEOUT OF CALLAHAN

Police led by Sergt. John Dunleavy and armed with shotguns visited two South End houses today under orders of Capt. James R. Claflin of Warren ave. division seeking Thomas A. Callahan, wanted for the murder of John P. "Keeno" Keenan in the Club Chalet.

These searches were unsuccessful, but from one place the officers brought back for questioning a man who was later released.

Callahan is said to have been severely beaten when he was evicted Monday morning from the Club Chalet, after which, it is alleged, he returned and engaged in an argument which ended in the shooting.

Callahan's wife, mother of a baby eight days old at Carney hospital, has been told her husband is ill at home with the [illegible]. A policeman is on watch at the hospital for Callahan.

Frederick W. Deegan, head waiter at the Club Chalet, was taken to the police station from his home on Wisconsin ave., Somerville, and after police announced he had admitted assisting the wounded Keenan out of the place. He also said he would recognize the shooter if he saw him again, but refused to say whether or not it was Callahan.

Armed detectives from headquarters will guard the funeral of Keenan tomorrow.

Police are determined there will be no repetition of brawls that marked the burial of Frank [illegible] and his lieutenant, "Dodo" Walsh, shot to death in the North End.

Services will be held from the home, at 16 Chase st., Dorchester, with a requiem mass at St. Ma[illegible] Church.

CRIME REPORT MAY CAUSE SHAKEUP

Commissioner Offered Another Position, Rumors Reveal

Among Police Commissioner Hultman's friends in the department there is a firm belief today that he is seriously considering to resign his post.

And there is another report that two department shakeups are pending, one in anticipation of the crime commission's report, the other to follow that report.

Hultman's relinquishment of department leadership, if and when it comes, will not be brought about by the crime commission's findings, according to his friends.

They believe he has been offered another position. They say, also, that his health is not of the best, that he looks far from well, and that some less exacting executive post would suit him better.

SCHWARTZ TO GO TOO

They do not anticipate a resignation in the immediate future, but possibly in the near future. And they expect that when he goes he will take his right bower, Leo Schwartz, legal adviser, with him.

Hultman has been absent from police headquarters a good deal during the year and these absences have continued since the close of the summer week-ends. Schwartz, too, has been much away from headquarters but not so much as the commissioner.

The deputy superintendents are completing a survey of conditions in the various divisions and it is known that Hultman plans many changes. Transfers will depend to great extent upon the crime commission report. [illegible] any of the favored men will [illegible] important posts until [illegible] the crime commission has given them clean bills of health.

PLAN TO CLEAN HOUSE

On the other hand, it is obvious that in certain sections where it is known the commission's lightning will strike, changes will be made beforehand to take some of the sting from the report.

There is a possibility of the New York police precinct system, or some [illegible] akin to it, coming into being here. Hultman has been to New York and studied the system there.

In any event, the headquarters detective bureau is due for a turnover. That sterner disciplinary measures are coming is apparent in the public reprimand of Capt. Harry Grace and two sergeants in the Hoffman case.

SHOE WORKERS' GET WARNING

With members of the shoe unions favoring amalgamation into one group by a 20 to 1 vote, according to final tabulations of their referendum, leaders today urged that they exercise care in selecting delegates for the convention to perfect the merger [illegible] Dec. 11.

The final tabulation revealed the amalgamation plan was favored by a vote of [illegible] to 117. The vote by unions was: Shoe Workers Protective Union, yes [illegible], no 473; Salem Shoe Workers Union, yes 719, no 6; National Shoe Workers Association, yes [illegible], no 8.

I. Zimmerman of the National Shoe Workers Association, in announcing the final tabulation, issued a warning to members of the unions to use care in picking delegates to the convention. He said they must do this to protect their interests against union officers, who wish to look after their own "well-feathered nests."

Boy, Woman Hurt by Somerville Autos

Somerville's record of auto fatalities was increased by two when a [illegible]-year-old boy and a 50-year-old woman were struck down by machines. The boy was Joseph Breen of 14 Park st., struck by a truck operated by Stewart Cobert of Tennyson st., Somerville. Mrs. Ellan Curtin of 29 Braemore rd., Medford, was struck by an Elevated bus operated by William Conlin of Packard ave., Somerville, while crossing Broadway.

Prisoner Prefers Jail to Wrentham

After arresting himself and journeying from Wrentham to Boston for trial, Herbert Barnes, 24, of that town was today cosily tucked away on Deer Island for six months at least. Barnes given the warrant for his own arrest by the Wrentham police chief, appeared in Superior Court here and was found guilty of failing to pay $5 a week for the support of a minor child. He was also fined $100.

Irwin Goes to Legislature Minus His Buttons

When Representative John I. Irwin of Medford appeared at the special session of the Legislature yesterday, he wore an overcoat without buttons, much to the chagrin of Mrs. Irwin.

Representative Irwin had been elected mayor of Medford the previous night. In the crush of congratulations some of the buttons were torn from his coat as he forced his way into the [illegible]. A few admirers took the loose buttons as souvenirs. Others took the remaining buttons on the overcoat and then his suit coat. It was well into the morning when the successful candidate turned in for a few winks of sleep, and he was not aroused until the last minute to get to the Legislature on time. He forgot to suggest anything about buttons. Fortunately, he had another suit, but only one overcoat, hence the absence of buttons.

Whether Mayor-elect Irwin will resign from the Legislature has not been decided. Many friends have advised him not to resign, because of the expense of holding a special election in Medford to name his successor. Many have pointed out that as mayor and representative for the next year he can be of greater value to his city.

AND WHEN YOU GET THAT IRRESISTIBLE URGE TO DO SOMETHING, DO IT! DON'T PUT IT OFF!

THAT GIRL FROM NEW YORK

By Allene Corliss

Jerry Loses His Position and He Tells Eden They Must Live With His Mother

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lovely, young Eden Lane and handsome Jerry Evan, a banker, fall in love on sight. Eden would not allow Jerry to kiss her the day they met, as she wanted whatever happened between them to be important—not casual. Five years before, following a disastrous love experience, Eden had come to New York. She obtained a position with an advertising concern and that, together with the income from her mother's estate, permitted her to live comfortably. Her popularity was assured, for not only was she beautiful and fascinating to men but she was an amusing companion who was stimulating without being intellectual. After two years in New York, she met Jake Pierson, an undemonstrative sort who aroused ardor by his lack of it. He proposed to Eden, but, while she enjoyed his companionship thoroughly, she did not love him. Following Eden's rejection, Jake disappeared. When next she saw him he was married, but his wife had gone to Arizona for her health. Jerry and Eden are finally married in New York and spend a four-day honeymoon at Atlantic City. Then they return to New York. Jerry writes a letter to his mother, telling her of his marriage. Elizabeth Prentiss, Jerry's hometown girl friend, is stunned by the news of his marriage. In New York Eden and Jerry have had their first quarrel that preceded a party at a friend's shore home. Jake accompanied them on the party where Jerry met Lola. Jerry and Lola disappear at the party and Jake has to take Eden home.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

She did. She dropped her fork with a little clatter, stiffened her lips to keep them from shaking and said, in a voice which she made no effort at all to control: "Don't you think we had better discuss last night, Jerry? After all, you can't make me forget by pretending it never happened."

"But I'm not pretending it never happened," protested Jerry, quickly, "and I don't expect you to forget it. If I haven't mentioned it, it's only because something else has happened since morning that seemed more—important. But about last night, Eden. I'm sorry—so sorry. And ashamed." He leaned toward her across the table, his face flushed, his eyes beseeching her stormy ones. "It was a rotten thing to do, Eden. I suppose you want to know exactly what happened—"

"On the contrary," interrupted Eden, stiffly, "I find I don't. If it's of no importance to you—and apparently it isn't, why should it be of any to me?"

Jerry scowled at her, his eyes puzzled. "But it is of importance to me. That is, it's of tremendous importance to me that you understand what really happened. You've got to let me explain——"

"I thought you had explained," Eden was holding her slim body rigid, her hands grasping the edge of the polished table. "You said you were drunk."

"Well, I was. But I'd like you to know what happened, or at least what didn't happen, after we left you. That girl, her name was Lola—thought of some people——"

"If you don't mind, Jerry, I'm not interested in Lola or what you did with her——"

Jerry stared at her incredulously.

"He thought I'd be careless and sophisticated about this," Eden thought and somewhere in the back of her mind she heard herself answer, "And I thought I could be, too—but I can't."

"Very well," he told her, sitting back in his chair, his eyes still slightly surprised and a trifle angry. "But a moment ago you said—you practically accused me of evading the whole thing—you're not being consistent."

Eden Hates Speaking Of Jerry's Behavior

"I know I'm not—I suppose I'm being just horribly disappointed in you——"

"For what?" demanded Jerry swiftly, his eyes grim, "for getting lit at a party?"

"For letting me down like that—for a girl like that—for not caring enough——"

"But, Eden—I tell you I didn't realize—I was——"

"I know. You were drunk. Do you have to keep repeating it?"

"Eden——" Jerry's voice beat against her hysteria—cool, miraculously controlled, "you've got to get this straight in your own mind—I was drunk—there's no getting around that, and you can't judge me as if I weren't—and I've a good idea that's exactly what you're doing. It isn't fair."

She stopped him with the swift lifting of her eyes. They were dark with anger.

"So you can sit there and accuse me of not being fair—don't be ridiculous."

"I'm only asking you to be reasonable. I suppose I took it for granted you would be. Apparently, I expected too much——"

"Hadn't we better stop talking—while we can?" Eden's voice was flat with anger.

[illegible] Staring at him across the table, it seemed impossible to her that things had ever been so beautifully right between them.

Jerry was smiling at her across the table—a slow, terrifying, [illegible] smile that started [illegible] in his eyes and crept gently about his mouth. "You do love me, don't you, Eden?" It was a whisper as warm and intimate as a kiss. [illegible] everything [illegible] that had gone before [illegible] was to come after.

He kicked his chair away from the table in two quick [illegible] and picked her up in his arms. [illegible] Jerry's eyes, [illegible] "Don't you see, darling, nothing matters—nothing matters at all—but this——"

With a [illegible] the anger [illegible] from her [illegible] through her fingers [illegible] knew she had no desire to [illegible] he had no more use for it [illegible] need of [illegible]

An hour later [illegible] remembered something. [illegible] she said. "You had something to tell me—something important, what was it?"

"You're quite right," Jerry told her, straightening slowly, grinning at her gently. "I wanted to tell you that I was fired today."

"Fired?" Eden stared at him with uncomprehending eyes.

"Exactly. Fired. Nice definite little word, isn't it? Short, sharp and snappy. It means discharged—given the gate, shoved out—all that sort of thing. I've known it was coming for weeks. They're resigning a lot of men and they knew I could afford to be dropped; they knew I could go home. In fact, old man Crom well, who gave me the job, six years ago, told me that was where I belonged. So I guess that's exactly what we'll be doing—going back to Jefferson the first of November."

[illegible] stared at [illegible] top of Jerry's [illegible] herself quite [illegible] want that to [illegible] New [illegible] to tell him.

She said, instead: "Must we do that, Jerry? Aren't there alternatives? You can be looking around for another job and even if you don't find anything right away, I'll still have mine."

"Yes, darling, you'll still have yours." Jerry's face flushed slightly [illegible] arm about her shoulders. [illegible] "The idea being, I suppose, that we could live on your salary, while I prowled the streets looking for work——"

"Well, why not? We could, you know. Not here of course, but somewhere. Lots of people are living quite decently on a lot less."

"Do you really think I'd do that, Eden? Let you keep the show going alone for months, perhaps—" Jerry's eyes were definitely angry now. "It seems to me, you're asking rather a lot——"

"But aren't you asking rather a lot of me also?" For a cataclysmic [illegible] Eden thought she was going to have courage enough to tell him the truth: that she disliked [illegible] his mother, that she [illegible] want to live with her [illegible] Then, she heard [illegible] ing calmly and quite [illegible] "You're being very young, Jerry. After all, this is something that concerns me quite as much as it does you. You haven't stopped to consider that I may not want to live in Jefferson—that I may much prefer to live in New York."

Jerry said, his voice abruptly contrite, "I'm sorry, darling. I didn't mean to upset you like this. It [illegible] thoughtless as hell of me to realize you might feel that way about it. Say the word, and we'll never mention Jefferson again—I probably can land something, eventually—"

Even Bridge Experts Err

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Card reading is supposed to be one of the attributes of the expert. Average players perhaps are inclined to give the expert too much credit for his ability to read distribution and possible honor strength, but it is undoubtedly true that a person can't be a good bridge player unless he knows something about this phase of the game.

Mr. Raymond Bafe, one of the expert Bridge players of New York, ordinarily is a very fine card reader, but after reaching a [illegible] contract of seven notrump with the hand below, he failed to display [illegible] heightened skill.

North Deals.
North and South vulnerable.

The bidding

North	East	South	West
[illegible]	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 [illegible]	Pass	4 [illegible]	Pass
5 ♢	Pass	7 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bid of five diamonds was [illegible] conventional. However, North and South were not using the Four-Five Notrump Convention, so the bid was designed as a rather [illegible] for other methods of reaching a Slam. When Mr. Bafe saw his own strong cards and knew that his partner had a [illegible] heart suit, he decided not to temporize further, which explains his bid of seven notrump.

Mr. Howard Schenken, who held the West hand, made the rather unusual lead of the heart [illegible]. Mr. Bafe won with the Queen, then played the hearts to break even and was defeated 1 trick.

Actually he could have made the Grand Slam without guessing had his play been more careful. The first thing he should have done was to learn something about the distribution of his opponents' hands. He then should have played the Ace of diamonds from dummy. If he had, he would immediately have learned that East had eight diamonds. With knowledge of [illegible] freak distribution, South should have further explored the distribution by leading three rounds of clubs and three rounds of spades, winning the last of course in his own hand. When East on the third round of either of these suits failed to follow suit, the finesse in the heart suit would have become plainly marked and the Grand Slam would have been made.

Today's Question

Both sides are vulnerable and my partner and I have a part-score of 60. I open the bidding with one spade and with no adverse bidding my partner responds with three diamonds. I hold.

♠ A Q 10 8 ♡ K 10 3 ♢ J 5 3 ♣ K 10 6

What should I bid?

Answer: Three notrump. Although your hand is close to an absolute minimum you must respond once to your partner's forcing Takeout even though due to the part-score, you have already reached game. Your partner may have a Slam in his own hand and merely wish a choice of suits.

RED CROSS NATIONWIDE RADIO ROLL CALL

Alfred E. Smith Airs Appeal Tonight

By N. F. T.

Roll Call time for the American Red Cross, always the kindred signal for stirred human hearts. Tonight this altruistic relief appeal takes wireless wings to be heard over the entire country, with Alfred E. Smith on hand as microphone spokesman. No name seemingly has more magnetic radio drawing power among loud speaker patrons than does that of the dynamic "Happy Warrior" from New York. He talks through Columbia Network channels this evening (WNAC) between 9.30 and 10 o'clock.

• • •

ADDED ATTRACTIONS

Also part of the annual Red Cross broadcast, listeners will hear Hans Kindler direct his celebrated National Symphony Orchestra. Officers of the organization [illegible] for brief remarks supplementing those of Mr. Smith, are announced as Judge John Barton Payne, National Chairman, and Mabel T. Boardman, Secretary. Introductions have been assigned to the very capable newspaper writer and colorful "mike" commentator, Edwin C. Hill.

GRACIOUS GREETING

Some of the famous friends attached to one Marie Dressler have a hotsy-totsy surprise in store for the beloved screen star late tonight. Notice we state "some" of her friends. Indeed all of them could never be assembled for any radio program. Well, this happens to be Marie's birthday and she makes no contention bones whatever about being 62 years of age. Such stars as Jean Harlow, Marion Davies, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, May Robson, Will Rogers, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Polly Moran, Jimmy (Schnozzle) Durante and others will gather around a great candle covered cake in Hollywood. An hour over coast to coast waves (WBZ-WBZA here) has been set aside to take in the merrymaking. Hear it all between 11 30 tonight and 12 30 in the morning. If not, surely something splendid will be missed.

Lung Collapse Method Aids T.B. Patients

By DR. R. A. COPELAND

"Is collapse of the lung in the treatment of tuberculosis successful? Is it painful? Do any ill effects follow? I have been advised to have this treatment, but am worried about it."

Dr. Copeland

This quotation is taken from a letter written me by a sufferer from tuberculosis. I have received many similar inquiries. Perhaps it will be useful to explain this method of treatment.

Some letters refer to the treatment as "gassing of the lung." In reality, it is a collapse of the lung by injection of gas into the chest cavity. The procedure is usually spoken of as "pneumothorax treatment."

PATIENTS AIDED

Recently I visited a tuberculosis sanitorium in the country where my farm is located. I saw there several patients who have been greatly aided toward recovery by this method.

This form of treatment is extremely beneficial in a certain type of cases. It is used for the patient who has a cavity of the lung.

In these cases great benefit is derived when the lung is collapsed. The collapse of the lung permits nature to heal up the cavity. Then there is no place for the germs to multiply. In consequence the disease does not become more extensive. The procedure has been a blessing to many sufferers from this dreaded affliction.

LUNG PUNCTURED

The involved lung is collapsed by puncturing it with a long needle and allowing the air within the lung to escape. Then the lung is kept collapsed by passing air into the chest cavity outside the lung. In this way the chest is refilled.

The first procedure must be done in a hospital, but the "refills" may be given in the doctor's office. The treatment has become so much simplified that the patient continues with his daily work. The results have justified the opening of clinics equipped with the necessary instruments. These are now being established in all large cities.

RIBS REMOVED

It is not to be expected, of course, that complete cure can be assured in every case. The success of the treatment depends upon the location of the cavity and the general health of the patient. Often too, the sufferer does not appear to benefit at first, but as the treatment is continued marked improvement is noticed.

In certain cases collapse of the lung by air is difficult or impossible. In such cases it is often advisable to subject the sufferer to an operation called "thoracoplasty." In this operation the ribs are first removed and the lung then collapsed. Remarkably beneficial results are obtained from this unusual method of treatment.

A LIQUID LAXATIVE BEST FOR CHILDREN

(For three reasons [illegible])

Did you know a laxative that works just right for you, can work havoc with a child?

That the laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six?

And that the wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday?

You wouldn't give your children a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give them a violent cathartic.

Parents Aroused At Last!

Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Druggists report increasing sales of liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the advantage of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health—and half-health—in children are being cleared-up by stopping all use of laxatives of adult strength.

Give Them a Chance!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

FAT JANE becomes SLIM JANE FOR ONLY 2¢ A DAY

Connecticut Orders Germ-Proof Mats For the Wrestlers ↕ B. C.'s Annual Letter, Stuhldreher's Prayer And a Lady's Legs

By AUSTEN LAKE

Connecticut, always a pioneer in matters of delicacy, is going to have sanitary wrestling. State Athletic Commissioner Joseph H. Lawlor has ordered henceforth that all ring mats must be freshly laundered and all ring furniture bathed with antiseptic solution before each match; because he wants to protect the wrestlers and ringside patrons from trachoma germs, which is a tiny virus that, when seen through a microscope, resembles animated lengths of bamboo, though in its adult stage it turns to infinitesmal strings of Japanese lanterns in silhouette. Mr. Lawlor does not want these lengths of bamboo and Japanese lanterns scattered through the air, because they cause inflamed eyes and, if neglected, blindness.

You may not know it, but most of the veteran wrestlers have suffered from trachoma at some stage of their careers, among them Jack Sherry, Joe Stecher, Gus Sonnenberg, Bibber McCoy, so that you may have noticed them blinking and squinting under the blaze of the ring lights as though dazzled by the glare. The disease was supposed to have been started among wrestlers by Yussef Mahmout, the so called Terrible Turk who died in a wreck at sea some years ago when his lifeboat overturned and he was dragged to the bottom by the weight of gold in his money belt.

Wrestlers tell me that the most painful experience of their careers is not from punishing headlocks, spread eagles or chanceries but from the process of scraping the inner lining of the eyelids with the copper instrument used by surgeons to cure the disease. Nowadays the younger wrestlers, the college breed, take precaution against trachoma by laving their eyes with a blueish liquid just before matches and by smearing vaseline about the lids.

You may have noticed, too, that few of the younger breed have the knob ears that look like fried clams and other portions of a shore dinner. For where the old stagers used to court scalloped ears as honorable badges of their profession, the junior group regard them as detrimental to their social standing and so spend hours massaging their flaps with oils and unguents to make the cartilage limber.

Personally I do not think the gentleman from Connecticut is letting his hair down in the matter of wrestling sanitation. I recommend that the wrestlers themselves be pasteurized before each match and delivered into the ring wrapped in cellophane with the state seals unbroken. Also the matches should be staged under glass domes, like the pastry on certain downtown lunch bars. And even then, the working press, which is nearest the infected area, should be supplied with medicated gauze masks.

B. C.'s Curley Sends Annual Letter to Notre Dame

Graduate Manager John P. Curley of Boston College, a patient and deserving gentleman, has just posted his annual letter to Notre Dame requesting, please, to put B. C. on their football schedule when opportunity offers. It has come to be almost a form letter. In a few days he will receive Notre Dame's usual reply, couched courteously, "We beg to inform you regretfully that Notre Dame's football program is filled for the next three years." It will be a rubber stamp reply because N. D.'s schedule is always filled for three years, owing to its being the best seller in college football.

But now that Notre Dame has been flogged in three successive games, not to mention the scoreless vacuum with Kansas State on opening day, Curley hopes that the market quotation on South Bend stock will dip down to B. C.'s buying power. Years ago when B. C. played Marquette at Milwaukee, Curley and Joe McKenney sidetripped down to South Bend and were received with Knute Rockne's [illegible] hospitality. They sat beside him on the Notre Dame bench, football's Holy of Holies, and intermittently they would say, "Rock, how about giving us . . ."

"Notice that shuttling end," Rockne would say, "that's going to revolutionize the game."

And a little later, after talking of many things, they would venture, "Boston is crazy to see your team . . ."

"Watch this sequence," Rockne would warn in his growly voice, "it builds up to a spot pass just behind the tackle." And after it was all over and the players were streaking for the locker room Rockne wrung the hands of his guests warmly and remarked, "Whatever it was that you were trying to say, write me a letter about it." And Curley has been writing letters ever since.

Stuhldreher's Grace Before the Roast

When Villanova comes to renew old football wars with Boston College this weekend, piano-legged, block-shouldered Harry Stuhldreher, the game's most self-effacing coach, will be leading them, perhaps for the last time. For Harry's name looms high among the candidates for "Hunk" Anderson's job at Notre Dame.

Just before sending his varsity on the field Saturday you will notice Harry crouch in the center of his huddled players, apparently serving up the last minute battle hymn before turning them loose on the enemy. The fact is that he will be offering a simple little prayer, somewhat as a pious parent says grace before carving the family roast. Harry's little invocation, which as an official in the game last year I happened to overhear, does not beg for victory or a fair division of touchdowns. It is totally unlike the pre-game supplication I overheard a certain school coach make some years ago.

"Down on your knees, lads," roared the coach, and as the boys bent over he petitioned, "Help us to play like gentlemen, a hard game and a fair game. Aid us in carrying our chins square and shoulders straight . . . and . . . and help us to knock these suckers for a loop."

Question of a Lady's Legs

Rose Davis, 23-year-old lass who is one of the Rodeo's leading cowladies, says the secret of riding a vicious bronc is in the strength of one's knees. Yet Rose's pipestem legs, which are encased in tight, white jodpurs, are most fragile, and spindly, scarcely capable looking props for casual standing purposes, let alone for the hydraulic pressure necessary to cling to the hurricane deck of a bucking horse.

The last time that I mentioned an athletic lady's underpinning was when Beatrice Loughran of New York won the national figure skating championship at the Boston Arena in 1928, at which time I remarked that her peculiar build, with heavyweight legs and a featherweight upper body, gave her a low balancing point and was the secret of her marvelous poise. And, land sakes alive, I wish you could have seen the scandalized letters.

MORTON 'EYES' PRINCETON

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9—With their unblemished record, the Princeton Tiger, the pride of Eastern gridiron, will be conceded a favorite over Dartmouth Saturday but, if the [illegible] spirit and determination of Coach Jack Cannell's Indians is to be taken into consideration, Fritz Crisler had better take warning for the Green is on the warpath to appear in the role of giant killer Saturday.

Although readily granting that any football unit which can keep its own goal line inviolate and run up a total of 144 points against its opponents in five games is a superior team, the Dartmouth players are convinced that the Nassau outfit has its imperfections. With the same die-hard spirit that featured their offensive drives at Yale. They will be out to exploit these defects to the maximum.

Bill Morton, Dartmouth's immortal all-America quarterback of the 1931 season, after scouting Princeton during its first four games has returned to Hanover with complete scouting reports to aid Head Coach Jack Cannell and his aides in their preparations for the invasion of the Tigers' lair. Morton reports that, although Princeton has without a doubt an extremely powerful team, the Crisler attack is not infallible and his insight into the Princeton offense should be of great assistance in preparing for the encounter.

HUSKY SUBS WIN BERTHS

Alfred Brown and Edward McNamara may win a chance to play much of the Arnold game in the Northeastern backfield. Injuries to Allan Hakanson and Larry Templeman, first string backs, will prevent the latter from taking part in much of the game with the result that the two substitutes who have been given small chance of showing their wares in earlier season contests will benefit.

Lloyd Allen and Lou Flumere are the most natural substitutes for Hakanson and Templeman but it seems that the first mentioned pair, while good runners are particularly weak on tackling and blocking.

Both Brown and McNamara have shown excellent defensive work and it is for this reason that they will get in the final game of the 1933 Husky season.

State Varsity Drills With Frosh

Griffith Approves Yost's Move to Bar Inebriates

Chicago, Nov. 9 (INS)—Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Big Ten, today expressed approval of Athletic Director Fielding Yost's decision to eject inebriates and rowdies from Michigan football games.

"It has always been the western conference's aim to discourage drinking and rowdyism at its football games," said Major Griffith. "When a person buys a ticket to see a football game he has the same right to protection as one would have in a theater. I think Yost is making a move in the right direction."

Redskins Entrain for Tilt With Giants

After doing a Peeping Tom act at the Polo Grounds, President George Marshall has wired the Redskins to hustle over to New York today to finish preparation for the Major Cavanaugh Memorial game with the New York Giants next Sunday.

One glance at Harry Newman's Giants ace tossing passes in practice convinced Long-Live-Linen George that his stalwarts would need to be well-rested and acclimated to have a chance in the battle which will settle the leadership of the eastern division of the National League.

Coach Lone Star Dietz plans to put his charges through long drill in the shadows of Coogan's Bluff tomorrow and Saturday.

Dietz, of course, will stress a defense to stop the famed Mr. Newman.

And the Giants, if they are smart will try to devise some method of stopping our Cliff Battles. The Redskins phantom ball carrier has already set a new league ground-gaining record by advancing the pigskin 611 yards in eight games. He has yet to be stopped by a rival.

NEWMAN LEADS PASSERS

Newman has a big lead on gaining by forwards, however, for his 25 completed passes in 61 throws have gained 825 yards. Glenn Presnell, Nebraska and Portsmouth, has gained 410 yards with 18 completed in 49. Arnold Herber of Green Bay [illegible] average [illegible] in 67 completed for 409 yards.

Ken Strong, former N. Y. U., now of the Giants, passed Buckets Goldenberg of Wisconsin and Green Bay in the [illegible] point scoring race. Strong now has [illegible] points. Presnell 47 and Goldenberg remained stationary at 42 as his teammate Monnett of Michigan State was scoring [illegible] the points in beating the Cardinals last Sunday.

Paul Moss of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Purdue remains the best pass receiver of the circuit. The only aerial [illegible] to gain more than 200 yards on the end of passes.

Indications are that a capacity crowd of over 50,000 will watch the conflict. Hundreds of Greater Boston fans anxious to do their bit towards swelling the fund which will be donated to the widow and children of the late Iron Major plan to make the trip.

Baseball Season Unaffected By Pa. Sunday Law

By JOE CASHMAN

Sunday baseball in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, made legal for the first time by the repeal of Pennsylvania's blue laws in Tuesday's election, will not mean a 168-game schedule in the majors next season.

The National League favors the longer campaign, but the American League can't see it. So the 1934 race will consist of 154 contests as usual.

The owners considered the question some weeks ago. The senior circuit voted 7 to 1 for the change. The junior loop was unanimously opposed to any change in the length of the season.

The opposition would have had its way if it had been evenly divided on the matter. A majority in both leagues is necessary to put such a change into effect.

FUCHS WANTED 168 GAMES

The dissenting club in the National League hasn't been named but it isn't the Braves. Judge Fuchs is strongly in favor of [illegible] game.

"I voted and fought for the longer season," the Tribal "prexy" admits. "I think it would help the game. The American League, however, is of a different mind, so we'll have to go along with 154 games for the present."

Fuchs began campaigning for a longer season when the Sunday [illegible] before the Pennsylvania [illegible] a year ago. Had the [illegible] the law at that time he [illegible] have put over the change. We know he has the Red Sox [illegible] on his side too.

Bob Quinn was opposed to the plan, but he preferred [illegible] to the [illegible] of open date [illegible] stopped [illegible] season extending from April 17 to Oct. 1 with Sunday games scheduled in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Incidentally, the [illegible] victory in Pennsylvania is a heavy blow to Bob [illegible] his new job as business manager of Brooklyn.

DODGERS SLICED

While the Phils and Pirates were unable to play at home, the Dodgers were always awarded 19 or 20 Sundays in Flatbush. From now on they will get but 12 or 13 of the choice dates a season.

MALDEN'S GRID TORNADO SET TO SWEEP EVERETT IN CLASSIC

AIM GRID GUNS TO WRECK 3RD UNBEATEN FOE

By BILL CONNELL

A Golden Tornado is gathering this week as the Malden high school tapers off work in preparation for the hardest test of the season when it entertains unbeaten Everett on Saturday.

Beaten only by Haverhill, Malden has one of the finest teams in the state. [illegible] Malden shattered two unbeaten teams' records the past two Saturdays, [illegible] Central and Brockton. And hopes to run the string to three straight.

ELEVEN OVERMANNED

It would be impossible now to name a complete first team for Malden. There were eight of the 1932 reliables [illegible] when fall practice started, but some of the subs developed so rapidly that now there are about 18 boys who justly could be ranked first string.

The team has two of the biggest and best tackles of the year. Capt. Wilbur Stanton, right tackle, is over six feet tall and weighs 195. Tom Buckley, left tackle, is a bit shorter than Stanton, but weighs over 190.

Four ends of almost equal ability are ready, John Ryan and Richard Harrison, left wings, and Walter Callahan and Fred Gianquitto on the other end.

The guards [illegible] George "Tarzan" Ludmersky on the right side and Melvin Baum on the left. Baum [illegible] They flank Leo Logue, center, who might have been an All pivot had a leg injury not kept him idle several games.

However Logue is fit now and will boost Malden chances a lot down the stretch. With Center Henry Burbine so close on Logue's heels that Leo needs to play great ball to stay in there.

[illegible]

Football for All at Malden

Malden has one of the best-conducted football programs among schools of the state. Three junior high schools have regular football programs and large squads. When these boys reach high school many have a good idea of the game. At high school all who so desire may play. At present 40 are on the first squad under Coaches Warren McGuirk and Gerry [illegible] Bob Blair and Charles McGeough direct the second squad of 70 boys.

The backfield moves under one of the [illegible] of recent years in Joe Kelley. Famed as a southpaw, many fans have overlooked his great blocking and, until the past couple of games [illegible]

[illegible]

So from all [illegible] football [illegible] one may see [illegible] quite a respectable Golden Tornado (the team's tag-line) may be developed. Its whirl against Everett may be the best thing in school football of the year.

LLOYD WANER BILL McKECHNIE

Bill McKechnie celebrates passage of the Sunday baseball law in Pennsylvania with Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, by going on a hunting excursion. MAJORS TO PLAY 154 GAMES

[illegible] Athletics.

Judge Fuchs admitted another disappointment today just before leaving for Washington, where he will be engaged for the remainder of the week in business.

It seems that Sidney Weil, who has just stepped down as president at Cincinnati, promised the Braves a chance to bid for "Chick" Hafey and another Red before he got out.

Now that Weil is out, the judge doesn't know where he stands as far as securing these Reds is concerned. He doubts that the new heads of the club will be willing to let these players go, but he's going to try to get them.

Harvard Booters Tune for Brown and Yale

Harvard's soccer team under Coach Jack Carr, an old ace himself, is preparing to finish its season in whirlwind fashion with a victory over Yale and incidentally to hand Brown a trimming on [illegible]

[illegible] this fall has been double that of many a football season. Excitement runs high from start to finish. The booters suffered their [illegible] of the season when a star went out with a broken leg. And still they talk about football being rough.

DEFEATED ONCE

Carr, with a veteran eleven, is taking all comers this fall. Every game hasn't been a victory. But the only black mark on the Crimson schedule is a surprise defeat [illegible]

[illegible] Then the old Dartmouth [illegible] the morale of the team for the Crimson then [illegible] down to Princeton, N. J., to play two overtime periods with the Tigers, this game also ending up in [illegible]

SOPHS ARE VETERANS

Carr will have a veteran lineup through and through for the final games. The halfback line was composed of sophomores at the beginning of the year. But they have now received plenty of seasoning and form one of the strongest links in the varsity chain.

Passes, Punts and Fumbles

By BILL GRIMES

At the end of the 1932 season, Coach Joe McKenney visu[illegible] the Eagle varsity team by the acquisition of Paul Flaherty, Ted Galligan, Billy Fenton, Tom Brennan, [illegible] Avery and Dimi Zaitz. Of this sophomore sextet, Avery and Zaitz are the only survivors, at least as far as Saturday's game with Villanova is concerned.

Ted Galligan has been out all season with an infected leg. Billy Fenlon broke a small bone in his ankle during the Loyola game, Tom Brennan was stricken with appendicitis just prior to the Fordham tilt, and Paul Flaherty contracted the flu last week.

Galligan and Fenlon [illegible] squad this week, but neither [illegible] be physically fit for action [illegible] be played Saturday.

When a squad of the size and ability of Boston College is deprived of the services of four players of the calibre of Flaherty, Brennan, Fenlon and Galligan, it pays a heavy toll but apparently Coach McKenney has become accustomed to such handicaps for he and his corps are carrying on, almost as though their aggregation was at war strength.

The Harvard coaching staff [illegible] West Point yesterday and [illegible] today and tomorrow, it will be even in a better mental condition than was Barry Wood's team two years ago before that famous 14 to 13 affair at "The Point."

Hundreds of Greater Boston football fans plan to pay tribute to the late Major Frank Cavanaugh by attending the Redskins-Giants game on Sunday in the Polo Gorunds.

The game is the greatest attraction that could be offered and it is for a most worthy cause.

Incidentally, although I knew "Cav" intimately for 25 years, I did not realize, until I heard a silver-tongued broadcaster, that the major's name was "Carvanaugh." It was a break for him that "Cav" did not hear him using the broad "A."

Pug Rentner Shows Old-Time Form

[illegible], Fla., Nov. 9 (AP)—If any of Northwestern's regulars have been wondering who was that freshman who passed them dizzy in practice, they can set their minds at rest. It wasn't a freshman but Pug Rentner, all-America back in 1931 and one of the greatest passers Northwestern ever has produced. He lined up with the yearlings to give the varsity a good workout.

Amateurs to Form New Court Loop

The Greater Boston Amateur [illegible] League will hold an organization meeting at the Hotel Avery next Tuesday night at [illegible] o'clock to formulate plans for the start of its third season.

Several applications for membership will be voted on at this time. Last year the league was made up of 1[illegible] teams and the championship was won by Chelsea K. of C. after a bitter series with St. Cahrles of Waltham.

JUMBOS 10 TO 6 CHOICE OVER TERRIERS

While local followers of football are installing Tufts as a 10 to 6 favorite over Boston University in the Saturday game between the two noted rivals at Tufts Oval, [illegible] feels that there is little to choose between the two teams.

"The history of the B. U.-Tufts football games proves that the unexpected can happen. Breaks will win or lose Saturday's game," Manley stated today.

"For the past seasons, B. U. had every reason in the world to expect victory but the Jumbos pulled out of defeat at the last moment. While our record this year might tend to make us some slight favorite, the fact of the matter is that this will be Boston University's last game of the season.

"They can throw the works at us. They can use their entire repertoire of plays without danger of disclosing pet plays planned for later objectives. They can use every available man without considering condition for future opponents.

"On the other hand Tufts has two more hard games on successive Saturdays, one with Bowdoin and another with Mass. State and as we are anxious to win both of them, our team will be in a different frame of mind than the Terriers."

Nevertheless, the Jumbos are in good shape and with three starting backs averaging 180 pounds, will field a smart, well conditioned eleven which will be rated a pre-game favorite.

Pat Clark, Walter Froehlich and Ed Rozean are big heavy fellows who can run, punt and pass, while [illegible] MacLean, fourth member of the backfield quartet, is much smaller but well set up and can [illegible]

Form Grid League in Essex County

The Northeastern Conference, comprised of smaller high school teams of Essex County, will branch out in football during the 1934 season, according to a schedule released by Cornelius Dunn, principal of Danvers high.

The conference, which is the brain child of Charlie Vye, Danvers coach, has been functioning with great success in both baseball and basketball for the past two years and football is a natural development.

Marblehead, Amesbury, Saugus, Newburyport, Swampscott and Danvers are the six gridiron teams although [illegible] is hoped to have Gloucester in the fold eventually.

The tentative schedule:

Oct. 12—Marblehead at Amesbury.
Oct. 27—Saugus at Amesbury, Newburyport at Swampscott, Danvers at Marblehead.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

CHARLEY STRACK, the big bad wolf of the wrestling game was quite jubilant when told he had been signed for a return bout with Joe Malcewicz on the Gus Sonnenberg-Casey Kazanjian card at the Boston Garden a week from tomorrow night.

I do not know of any reason why Strack should desire to get inside of the ropes with Malcewicz again. I saw these men battle for 13 minutes at the Garden recently. Each used his fists, elbows and feet as they furnished one of the most exciting battles ever witnessed here.

Mr. Boston

If I were either Strack or Malcewicz, I would not desire a return match. I know better ways of spending an evening.

Strack, however, is a rare type of athlete. When he isn't wrestling he is playing football. He likes the thrill of competition.

Malcewicz has been one of the headliners of the mat game for many years. He is one of the fastest humans on his feet in athletics today. The old Panther will make Strack realize he has been in a real tussle.

Crowd With Sonny

I FIND that a fickle public is once more rooting for Gus Sonnenberg to scale the wrestling heights. Sonny was a popular idol as he fought his way to a bout with Strangler Lewis. As champion, the crowd rooted for his downfall.

Now that Gus has been a former champion for several years, he has won public support again. I think Gus' marital troubles gained for him a certain amount of public sympathy.

Gus will train here for his contest with Kazanjian. He says this match will open a drive which he feels confident will end with his regaining the world's heavyweight championship.

St. Joe's Tourney

THE 175 POUNDERS will come in for considerable attention at the amateur boxing tournament of the St. Joseph's T. A. Society which will be staged at Mechanics Building on Saturday night. "Father Bill" Cuddy reports he has received a great many entries in this class. The 175 pounders are able to punch, while they are also good boxers.

There will also be bouts at 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds.

The opening show of the St. Joe's Club last Saturday night furnished plenty of competition. "Father Bill" Cuddy was pleased at the large number of new boxers who are seeking honors in the ranks of the simon pures.

Return of Schmeling

MAX SCHMELING will be back in the United States early next year, starting a new drive for the heavyweight championship which he lost to Jack Sharkey. Joe Jacobs, wise in the matter of publicity, has already announced that Schmeling will meet Max Baer in a return bout in San Francisco in February, and that he will also battle Tommy Loughran and King Levinsky.

I do not believe Schmeling has any urgent desire to meet Baer in his first come-back bout. Baer knocked the German out in New York last June, and would probably repeat. It is more likely that Baer will sign to meet Tommy Loughran. The latter is a light puncher, and on his way out as a ring headliner. Schmeling would probably stop him.

Schmeling may later meet Levinsky, who gained standing as a [illegible] contender as a result of his win over Sharkey. The Kingfish will keep tuned up for Schmeling by meeting Dan McCorkindale.

Crowley Leads Rivals' Rally

New York, Nov. 9 (INS)—Jim Crowley, Fordham coach, was the talk of the N. Y. U. campus today. He addressed a "beat Fordham" rally at N. Y. U. last night, wore a "Beat Fordham" button and intimated his team would not be as easy to convince that "beat Fordham" was the correct slogan. However, he made a great hit with the rival institution.

BINGHAM SEEKS RULE SOLUTION

Dissatisfaction with the present football rules, especiall ythose having to do with running fumbled balls, is beginning to take definite form.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, has already taken steps to feel the pulse of the leading coaches o fthe East.

He has mailed questionnaires seeking information on rules concerning fumbles and any other relative matters, which must be in the hands of H. J. Stegman, chairman of the committee on rules changes, by December 1 at the latest.

Bingham's questions are three in number:

1—Would you allow the kicking team to advance a legally recovered kicked ball?

2—Would you allow a defensive team to advance a fumble recovered in the air or on the ground?

3—Would you allow a recovered lateral pass to be advanced regardless of whether it is in the air or on the ground?

These replies will be the main subject of discussion when the rules committee meets next month. When they were first put into the record book it was hoped that they would encourage a more open game but instead it seems to be the consensus that the thrill of the game has been reduced in a marked fashion by the inability to advance a recovered fumble.

Dusette Tackles Mephisto Next

George Dusette, former Notre Dame football player and Mephisto, crack German [illegible] heavyweight, will clash in the main bout of the wrestling tourney at Mechanics Building next Tuesday evening.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Andy Divodi, 131½, New York, outpointed Steve Halaiko, 141, Buffalo (10).

MARQUETTE ACE SET FOR FRAY

Coach Bill Santry of the Pere Marquette eleven announces that Billy O'Leary, who has been on the injured list for the past few weeks, will be in shape for the battle with the Fittons at Fenway Park next Sunday afternoon.

O'Leary is the Albie Booth of local semi-pro grid circles. Weighing not more than 15[illegible] pounds, he can run, punt or pass rings around the most powerful of sand-lot backs.

The Peres and Fittons have been clashing on the grid annually since 19[illegible]. O'Leary has played in every battle. In his younger days he was besieged with college offers but unfortunately he was unable to accept. Smart coaches say he couldn't have missed being an All-America star if he had entered intercollegiate competition.

The return of O'Leary to health means that Santry can field an all-sandlot backfield with Connelly, Walsh and Bushman also available. It will be interesting to compare this quartet with the Fittons college bred backfield of Baker, Donovan and Griffin of Holy Cross and Cullen of Loyola.

Cannell for Repeal of 'Dead Ball' Rule

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9 (INS)—Football coaches favoring repeal of the present rules governing fumbles and "dead balls" were joined today by Jackson Cannell, Dartmouth coach. Cannell also was opposed to another rule which prohibits a player from advancing with a ball if any part of his body has touched the ground, except feet or hands.

IRISH ALUMNI PROVE LOYAL TO ANDERSON

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 9 (AP)—The man who shouldered one of college football's toughest assignments when Knute K. Rockne crashed to his tragic death almost three years ago, broke his long silence as his wistful eyes peered out of a veritable pile of telegrams and letters on his desk.

But he didn't reply or attack his critics. Instead he talked of loyalty—the loyalty of Notre Dame's alumni.

"These are trying days for Notre Dame football and for me," Coach Heartly "Hunk" Anderson spoke up, "but when I'm through with the game I'll never forget these."

He pointed to the letters and telegrams.

"There are telegrams and letters from all over the country in that pile," he continued. "They are proof that the greatest, finest bunch of alumni that ever trod on a campus are those of Notre Dame.

"Kickers? There isn't one in a thousand! Instead of pointing out faults, these alumni of Notre Dame send messages of cheer and hope. 'Keep your chin up', 'Don't let 'em get you down', and 'We're all for you'.

"That's what those letters and telegrams say. And you can just tab it in your hat that they provide the inspiration of a lifetime to a fellow who happens to need some inspiration right now."

The "haunted man" of Notre Dame football leaned back on his chair and a grin spread across his face.

"What do you think? Last midnight I was awakened by a long distance telephone call. It was from a bunch of alumni at Burns, Ore. 'Keep your chin up, we're with you' was their message. Another night, I got a call from Atlanta, Ga., and from Chicago, New York and Los Angeles. Yesterday I got a night letter from a group of alumni at Peoria, Ill.

"Even the kids are sending me messages of hope and confidence. Other letters come from fans, who never saw Notre Dame or a Notre Dame football team in action, I suppose, but I try my best to answer them all. Any that I've missed, I want to thank now through the Associated Press."

Edging onto the sports stage before football has sung its swan song, major league hockey bows in tonight as the Boston Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs, champions of the American and Canadian divisions a year ago, clash at Toronto. The Bruins Cubs (in back row) swing into action tomorrow against the Beavers at Quebec. Here are the two Boston squads you will see in action this winter. Eddie Shore, Bruins ace, is among the missing. He is the only holdout in major league hockey.

Maiocco to Call Plays for Eagles Saturday

By WALTER KILEY

For some two months Joe McKenney has been trying to solve his quarterback problem at Boston College. When he started the season he had only Johnny Freitas, a veteran campaigner.

Billy Fenlon, Haverhill sophomore, looked like ready money but was rendered hors de combat in the Loyola game. Paul Flaherty, 185 pound Woburnite, then broke forth like a welcome sun after days of rain, only to be temporarily lost on the eve of the Georgetown game.

Bernie Moynahan, a hard working junior, stepped into the picture and filled in in fairly creditable fashion, but still lacked the finesse which makes for a successful field general.

MAIOCCO LATEST

Now along comes George Maiocco, sophomore product from Boston English high who, in the course of one week, has jumped from fourth to second string signal caller, even forging ahead of the more experienced Moynahan.

Maiocco, who received his early training in the D. Leo Daley gridiron school on Montgomery st., will relieve Freitas in the all important game with Villanova on Saturday, according to McKenney's statement this morning.

His showing against Georgetown and his more recent form displayed in handling the varsity in a scrimmage with the freshmen has prompted the Eagle coaches to pin their faith in the 165 pound youth from the Boston public schools.

FLAHERTY ON BENCH

It is particularly fortunate that Maiocco is coming into his own just at this moment. Paul Flaherty seems definitely out of the battle with the Wildcats.

A cold has developed into a heavy case of grippe, and Flaherty has yet to return to his college classes. He may be back before Saturday, but McKenney is not figuring on using him, as the Woburnite will be out of condition and probably weakened by his days of confinement.

Maiocco went into the Georgetown game and gave a fine account of his field generalship. He scored one touchdown and aided in another.

However, it was his command of the team that most impressed the B. C. coaches. He handled the team with precision, chose his plays intelligently, ran well with the ball and was exceptionally fine in returning punts.

If Maiocco is calling the signals in a backfield of Capt. Frank Maloney, Bobby Ott and Johnny Dougan, a trio which is slated to start along with Freitas, Ott will undoubtedly be called upon to do the punting although Maiocco is considered at least fair in this department.

NEGLECT GROUND GAME

In yesterday's scrimmage with the freshmen eleven, the Eagles paid particular attention to their running game.

In contrast to early season games the Maroon and Gold has resorted to the air so frequently lately, that it has more or less neglected to consider the importance of ground gaining by carrying.

Co-ordination of both departments is being strived for. Villanova has been noted for its defense against passes with the result that ball carrying seems due to play a big part in the Eagles' offense.

Ed "Jake" Driscoll was the big gun of the varsity attack on the freshman team yesterday. Driscoll, Pat Avery and Joe Orlorsky will be in the second team backfield. Orlorsky, a senior, is just beginning to assert himself and the Abington youth may be the big surprise of the balance of the season.

In the meanwhile the Eagles are working overtime on defensive tactics. They expect much from four fine Villanova backs, Randour whom McKenney considers the best back to oppose the Eagles in 1932, Toby Cavanaugh, quarterback from Norwood, Cook, 200 pound fullback and Weisenbaugh, second only to Randour in Villanova scoring this fall.

CUBS, BEAVERS IN OPENER

Quebec, Nov. 9. A change in schedule of the Canadian American League has extended the stay of the Boston Bruins Cubs here and the Boston team will officially inaugurate the Can-Am campaign here on Friday night playing against the Quebec Beavers. The teams will play a second game here on Sunday night and the Cubs will then move south for their Boston opening.

Coach Art Chapman put his Cubs through a hard workout today with the players showing in a way that pleases him. The lines are combining better and there seems little doubt that Chapman and Heximer have added strength to the team as play makers and smart defensive operatives. The efforts of Chapman this week has been to polish up his defense.

DAILY ROUNDUP

The Braves scattered around the country will be delighted to learn that they have spent their last spring in the "barracks," as they called the little one-room bungalows of the West Coast Inn, where they were quartered during the past four training seasons.

Judge Fuchs is going to pitch camp at a larger and more modern hotel nearer the business section of St. Pete next year.

Jim Browning has notified Paul Bowser he will go through with the three Boston matches which Frank Smith, his former manager, signed for. Smith died from a heart attack in Toronto last week following Browning's bout with Jumping Joe Savoldi.

Harry Stuhldreher and his Villanova Wildcats arrive in Boston at 7.30 tomorrow morning and will make their headquarters at Hotel Kenmore. They will work out at University Heights in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Villanova has already been installed as 10 to 8 favorite over the Eagles.

Prospects of an annual game between Northeastern and Boston University, both of which teams wind up their 1933 seasons on Saturday, appear glum. It appears that Boston University students are favoring a game, one which appeals also to the Engineers' student body. But those in charge of athletics at both institutions seem loath to decide favorably for either this year or in the immediate future.

Lexington high school's board of sports strategy deserves a medal for variety of means devised to raise money to aid the sports program. Among Grid Coach George Perry, Faculty Manager Irving Sherwood and E. Ellis Abell, director of physical education, are concocted new ideas every few weeks for raising funds. Magazines and Christmas cards are sold, dances and dramas staged and the A. A. enrolls more than half the student body and collects $1.50 from each to help carry on the fine sports card.

CONNELL

One year ago, Art Ross, Lester Patrick and Jack Adams were the only N. H. L. club manager-coaches retained from the previous season. Apparently, the mentors performed with better satisfaction last year, for, with the exception of Cy Denenney who was replaced by Ottawa in favor of George Boucher, the coaches are all back on their old jobs.

Come Back; All Is Forgotten

Harvard Welcomes Ted Husing, Who Called Our Barry 'Putrid'

Ace Announcer on Spot Proves You Can't Keep a Good Voice Down

By BILL GRIMES

Time is a healer of wrongs and today Harvard receives Ted Husing back in the fold.

Ted has expressed sorrow for his reference over the air to Barry Wood's play as "putrid" and Harvard has modified its opinions of Ted, which, although never sent out over the ether, were, nevertheless, virulent.

Ted blustered into the Harvard A. A. today and his reception was as cordial as the return of any prodigal son. The air was filled with salutations of "Hello, Ted," "Hi, Frank" and "Glad to see you again, Eakie!"

Today, Ted Husing is in search of color for his broadcast of the Harvard-Dartmouth game. He plans to get all possible data from Frank Ryan, visit the Dillon Field House, whiff the mercurichrome from the medical rome, size up the squad from close range and sit it on the practice.

While Capt. Barry Wood's squad was dressing for its final practice session before the Army game two years ago at Briar Cliff Manor, I was sitting in Eddie Casey's room, awaiting news as to whether the workout was to be open or secret.

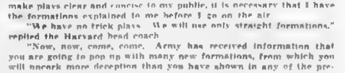
Arthur Sampson, a member of the Harvard coaching staff at that time, was relaxing in the most comfortable chair in the room, slowly and with due care removing the cellophane wrapper from a cigar.

Suddenly the door flew open and with much gusto, a tall, thin young man, accompanied by three West Point cadets entered. Because of his blunt entrance I thought for the moment the tall, thin young man was an officer of high rank in the regular army in civies with his orderlies.

"Where's Casey? I'm Ted Husing of the Columbia Broadcasting System. I want to get a line on the trick plays I hear he is going to use against Army tomorrow."

Fortunately, Eddie Casey was not present or in his highly nervous condition, due to the strain of directing his first major game. He might have leaped out the window, bounced off the first tee of the hotel's golf course and wound up at the foot of the steep hill.

Now, anytime that "Sambo" Sampson is preparing to smoke one of his pet cigars, all the Ted Husings that could pack on the air, could not break his power of concentration. And, not having any official connections with the Harvard party, I could not figure any excuse for butting into the controversy.



"Can't you get Casey? I've got to get back to the 'Point' in time for the C. B. S. test at Michie Stadium."

By that time, Sampson had forced a draft through the soft coal he was endeavoring to smoke and came up with "He'll be here, in a few minutes."

Then, we both had our ears tinned, while listening to the new chains Columbia was linking together from the Dixie to the What-Have-You.

Finally, in strolled Eddie Casey. The Harvard secret service system has miscued. Its head coach had not been forewarned that he was about to be interviewed. And, Eddie walked into an avalanche of questions, which, at times, almost reached the demand stage.

"Casey, they tell me at the 'Point' that you have a bag full of tricks all set to spring on Army. Now, you know that in order to make plays clear and concise to my public, it is necessary that I have the formations explained to me before I go on the air.

"We have no trick plays. We will use only straight formations," replied the Harvard head coach.

"Now, now, come, come. Army has received information that you are going to pop up with many new formations, from which you will uncork more deception than you have shown in any of the preliminary games."

"I tell you, Army has seen everything we have. But, if you know better or if Army does, why don't you ask them to explain our plans to you? I've told you all I can, except the signals."

Ted appeared to have been thrown for a loss, but he cut back with "Of course, you have no objections to my watching the practice?"

About this time, Eddie Casey was beginning to burn up. He had enough worries on his mind without taking on this third degree.

"I certainly have," replied Casey, with more than his usual amount of emphasis. "The practice is secret. Even the Boston sports writers are barred. So just how do you figure I could invite you?"

As Eddie had answered the question I was there to put to him, I departed and enjoyed the rest of the afternoon hacking my way around the golf course with Carrol Getchell and Henry McKenna.

During the Harvard-Yale game Ted came up with that "putrid" remark and was supposedly barred from broadcasting all future Crimson games.

And, give the boy his due credit, for he has the stuff and has demonstrated his uncanny power of persuasion by talking himself back into the good graces of Harvard.

HUSKY STARS IN N. E. TITLE RUN

A list of 15 varsity and 11 freshman entries was announced today by Coach Clarence McIntyre of Northeastern University for the annual New England intercollegiate cross country run at Franklin Park next Monday afternoon.

From these groups will be selected the seven runners who will take to the starting lines in each race according to the rules of the event.

Dick Stimpson, individual winner in three of Northeastern's dual meets this fall, along with Al Lengel and Willard Perry, sophomores, are certain Husky varsity starters.

Northeastern's entries: Varsity five-mile run, Richardt Simpson, Brockton, Willard Perry, Beverly, Albert Lengel, Hartford, Ct., Henry Cattley, Melrose, Walter Robak, Cambridge; Leon Sudrabin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Edgar Ramey, Roslindale; Joseph Sorrenti, Everett, Donald Bean, Newburyport, Henry Fowler, [illegible] William [illegible] Quincy; Leo Howard, Sangerville, Me.; Roger Raymond, Beverly, Ervin Gross, Attleboro, Loren Sjostrom, Methuen.

Here Are the Outstanding Changes in Hockey Rules

New York, Nov. 9 (AP). Here are the outstanding changes in the National Hockey League rules for the season which opens tonight: Each referee will have control over one end of the ice from center to end. They have equal power.

No player may approach within 57 inches of the goal unless he is carrying the puck.

No player on the attacking team may skate between the puck carrier and the goal inside an area marked near the goal by a series of dots on the ice.

If a player enters the attacking zone ahead of the puck, the whistle will not be blown for a face off until the puck crosses the line, thus giving the offender a chance to return to the center zone.

A face off instead of a minor penalty will be called when a player continues in action with a broken stick.

The penalty for shooting the puck out of the rink in an effort to hoist it down the ice has been eliminated.

A face off instead of a minor penalty will be called when a player passes or carries the puck toward his own goal in an effort to delay the game.

The anti-defense rule has been re-worded so that a player who is caught out of position by a sudden change of play will not be penalized.

Bruins Face Leafs in Toronto Ice Debut

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 9. Another National Hockey League season opens here this evening with the Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, defending champions of the Canadian and American divisions, respectively, prying off the lid before a capacity crowd.

Manager Connie Smythe of the local six had added Hec Kilrea, star wing from Ottawa, and George Hainsworth, veteran goalie from the Canadiens, to his roster while the visitors must start without the services of Eddie Shore, greatest of defensemen.

Despite the absence of his ace, Manager Art Ross claims the Bay State sextet was never stronger or in better shape for the opening of a campaign. He picked up Bob Gracie, who was sent to Ottawa by the Leafs in the Kilrea deal, and predicts that the former Toronto forward will make local fans wish he had been retained before tonight's game is over.

Gracie will start on the first line with Capt. Marty Barry and Dit Clapper. The second Boston line will find Nels Stewart, Joe Lamb and Vic Ripley, three veterans, working together again.

Peggy O'Neill, most promising of the Bruins rookies, will be at [illegible] by the veterans Harry Oliver and Red Beattie.

Fred Hitchman and Alex Smith will play defense in front of the able Tiny Thompson in the nets. "Hitch" and Smith will have to work overtime until Shore agrees to terms.

The Leafs famed first-string kid line of Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and Red Jackson, will start intact. Kilrea is playing on the second line with Bill Thoms. King Clancy, Red Horner, Alex Levinsky and Happy Day will protect Hainsworth in the cage.

The Bruins move on to Montreal after tonight's clash for a Saturday [illegible] with the Maroons, whom they have already beaten in [illegible].

The Rossmen will make their home debut against Detroit at the Boston Garden next Tuesday night. The management hopes to have Shore in uniform by that time.

Shore "Steals Show" on Edmonton Rink

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 9 (AP).—Eddie Shore, defense star of the Boston Bruins, who stands suspended by President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League has been out shooting the last two days but only in the vicinity of his farm. He is seeking a deer.

Each night he practices with the Edmonton Eskimos and on Wednesday [illegible] "stole the show" despite the fact it was only his second time on skates this season.

Another holdout who is working with the Eskimos nightly is Paul Runge of the Philadelphia Arrows.

U. S. POLICY TO RULE MARKET, SAYS HANEY

Rally in Stocks Is Expected; Due to the Federal Factor

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, Nov. 9—Those interested in the stock market have to recognize that we have been going through one of these periods of uncertainty and hesitation when it is impossible to say definitely what the probability is.

One can never know but frequently one can reason rather definitely and arrive at a probable outcome. The [illegible] foreseeable political action [illegible] much of a factor to allow even this.

* * *

For example the market averages have been forming one of those triangles which frequently precede an important move. Ordinarily a skilled economist could appraise the general situation and form a [illegible] opinion as to the direction of this move. At present the [illegible] for business and earnings are [illegible] the controlling factor in the market. The controlling factor is government policy, particularly with reference to inflation. And I am inclined to think that factor is likely to [illegible] the market which [illegible] success.

* * *

[illegible] The NRA [illegible] business recovery and [illegible]

[illegible] distributed and utility stocks are relatively weak.

[illegible] bull side of the stock [illegible] one can [illegible]

(1) That, aside from utilities, the market has been acting as though it were trying to go up. We have had two days of dullness on decline, and the periods of little spurts of activity have attended rising prices. The secondary reaction last week was stopped above the preceding low.

(2) There are a number of "stimulants" at work, which, while of doubtful soundness from a long-run point of view, may be effective in the near future. I refer to the buying of steel rails by railways, the early approach of prohibition repeal, release of deposits in closed banks, and government payments to cotton, corn and hog raisers.

(3) And don't forget inflation, for it still remains the most important potentiality affecting the future of the stock market.

* * *

The holding of hedges in inflation stocks, particularly the [illegible] gold mining issues [illegible] appears to be justified.

Idea of Utilities Owned by Cities Is Given New Jolt

By WALL ST. SPECTATOR

The idea that cities should own their own utility plants at this time got a jolt in the election. A half dozen cities voted against municipal ownership of utility systems. They were Cincinnati, Youngstown, Akron and Portsmouth, Ohio, and San Francisco and Salt Lake City. Only Camden, N. J., evidently decided in favor of constructing a city plant and there the proposal is permissive rather than mandatory. The city [illegible] retaining power to decide whether to proceed with the [illegible] ownership [illegible] or not. [illegible] is bullish on the utilities and some traders assert [illegible] bullish on the market as a whole.

IS ABOLITION OF BOSS RULE NEW SIGN?

Business Men See Portent in Upset, Asserts Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Nov. 9—Business men read deep significance in the revolt by New York voters against bosses.

High financial circles have taken note of the reception, accorded throughout the length and breadth of the country, the disclosures wrung from Albert H. Wiggin, ex-head of America's largest bank concerning his stock jugglery and other money-making schemes.

FURTHER RALLY IS REGISTERED BY LEADERS

New York, Nov. 9—Numerous maximum gains of one to more than five points were scored in successive waves of rallying today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some of the early gains were erased in a last-hour flurry of profit-taking.

Profit-taking appeared from time to time to slow down the recovery. Commodity markets' action, with wheat and cotton advancing, aided shares.

Rails worked up moderately, with sentiment improved by Union Pacific's action in maintaining the dividend at the regular rate.

The dollar continued to decline, with the pound soaring above $5 to $5.09 for the first time since 1914, while francs also hit a new high. The foreign currency action was a factor in bringing funds into shares.

In the first hour gains of one to two or more points ruled. Blocks of 500 to 1000 shares were common on the early tape. Shares up two or more included J. I. Case, American Commercial Alcohol, International Business Machines and Owens-Illinois.

Gains of a point or more came in American & Foreign Power, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, American Can, Liggett & Myers "B," Macy, Houston Oil and American Tobacco "B," the last-named selling "ex" dividend. Homestake was down five points.

Sales at 11 a. m. approximated 70,000 shares.

In the second hour, with the exception of metals, which lagged slightly, the market recorded higher quotations. By noon the list quieted, however, and advances were somewhat below the best for the day.

Case, Auburn, Delaware & Hudson, Industrial Rayon, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, U. S. Steel preferred, Western Union, National Distillers and Union Pacific were all up two or better, the last-named responding to declaration of its regular dividend.

Sales to noon approximated 1,80,000 shares.

In the third hour some further rises were recorded. International Business Machines got up over five points. Gains of two or better showed for American Can, Hercules, Case, Celanese and American Tobacco "B."

Point or better gains held for International Telephone, Liggett & Myers "B," Anchor Cap, Allied Chemical, Atchison and Illinois Central. U. S. Steel and Westinghouse Electric were up fractionally.

Sales to 1 p. m. approximated 1,830,000 shares.

In the fourth hour another rally got under way. International Business Machines held up over five points and Celanese gained three. Advances of two or more showed for U. S. Steel preferred, Delaware & Hudson and Allied Chemical.

Gains of a point or better appeared for Johns-Manville, International Telephone, General Motors, Lackawanna, Bethlehem, Borden, Continental Can, Corn Products, American & Foreign Power, Industrial Rayon, Illinois Central, Sears, New York Central, New Haven, United Aircraft and U. S. Steel.

Sales to 2 p. m. approximated 2,40,000 shares.

Federal "Gas" Tax to Be Eliminated

With repeal of the 18th Amendment, which becomes effective early in December, the contingent one-half-cent a gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax, imposed with enactment of the National Recovery Act, is scheduled to be removed. Such action will reduce the federal tax to one cent.

Eliminations of the federal one-half-cent tax by Presidential proclamation in December will reduce the average of state and federal gasoline tax rates to about 5.18 cents a gallon.

Canadian Markets to Close Saturday

All Canadian stock and commodity markets will be closed November 11, Armistice Day. Exchanges that already have announced plans to close include the Montreal Stock Exchange, the Montreal Curb, the Toronto Stock Exchange, Toronto Curb, Toronto Stock & Mining Exchange and Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Cream Cheese Used in Many Dainties

By MARTHA LEE

We've been doing things with cream cheese in the Martha Lee Cooking School lately, especially with the new cream cheese pastry that's created so much favorable comment in the world of dessert.

Even the youngest member of our cooking school brigade can make this cream cheese pastry without previous experience or practice, and from it a variety of delicious dainties.

Here's the foundation recipe:

CREAM CHEESE PASTRY

2 pkgs. cream cheese
½ lb. sweet butter
4 tbsps. sugar
2 cups flour

Soften butter and add cheese. Sift flour after measuring and add to mixture. Add granulated sugar, knead well. Place on ice over night. When ready to use, flour board and rolling pin. Roll dough very thin. Use for pies, pastry shells or cookies. Can be kept in ice box in parchment paper for two weeks.

CREAM CHEESE COOKIES

Cream Cheese Pastry
1 egg
1 tbsp. milk
Sugar
Chopped almonds

Roll Cream Cheese Pastry very thin. Use fancy cutter. Butter and flour cookie tin. When cookies are in tin, brush with egg and milk mixture. Sprinkle with nuts and a little granulated sugar. Use hot oven (450 deg. F.) Watch carefully.

STUFFED MONKEYS

Cream Cheese Pastry
1 cup brown sugar
½ lb. grated almonds
Butter.

Roll pastry in oblong sheets. Place one sheet of pastry in buttered cookie tin. Brush it lightly with melted butter. Mix sugar and almonds or almond paste. Spread. Cover with another sheet of pastry. Bake in an oven at 400 deg. F., 10 minutes. When cool, cut in squares.

NUT AND FRUIT WHIRLS

Cream Cheese Pastry
½ cup nuts
½ cup raisins
¼ cup candied orange peel
2-3 cup brown sugar
Butter
¼ cup citron.

Roll pastry in oblong sheets. Brush lightly with melted butter. Chop nuts and fruit very fine. Spread. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Roll like jelly roll. Cut in half inch slices and place cut side down on buttered cookie sheet. Bake about 10 minutes in an oven at 400 deg. F.

PONY AWAITING LUCKY CHILD

The person who can find the name of this beautiful little cow pony in the ads of the regular advertisers in the columns of the Boston Evening American may be the lucky winner of the pony.

In addition, to the winner will go

a real western saddle and bridle and an Indian saddle blanket.

The winner of the contest will have the choice of accepting either the handsome little pinto pony or $100, and will be awarded the prize by Col. Johnson in the rodeo ring at the Boston Garden on Nov. 19.

The contest is open to readers of the Boston Evening American between the ages of six and 16. Send in only the name you pick for the pony, your name, address and telephone number, if any.

No. 217---First Prize Tested Recipes

Five Dollar Winner for Thursday

MARY P. SCANLON
20 Clinton St., Cambridge.

TOMATO AND PEANUT SALAD

6 tomatoes, peeled
3 cups chopped cabbage
1 cup freshly roasted peanuts, chopped
French dressing
Mayonnaise
A dash of cayenne

Peel the tomatoes carefully and hollow them out. Fill with a mixture of the cabbage and peanuts, to which French dressing, sufficient to moisten it has been added just before filling the tomato shells. When ready to serve, top each salad with a spoonful of mayonnaise and serve at once. If desired, celery may be used instead of the cabbage.

BOSTON TESTED AMERICAN

Every day the Boston Evening American awards $10 in cash for the six outstanding recipes sent to Martha Lee. If you have a favorite recipe—one that you are exceptionally fond of—send it to Martha Lee's Recipes, Boston American, P. O. Box 2037, Boston.

Each day there is a first cash prize of $5 and five other awards of $1. Prizes will be paid only on recipes that are published. You may submit one or more new recipes every day if you wish.

A special award of $25 in cash prizes is offered by Martha Lee for recipes sent to her, for her page in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Every Sunday a first prize of $10 is offered. Then there will be two $5 prizes and five $1 awards. If you wish to compete for the Sunday prizes, send your recipes to Martha Lee's Recipes, Boston Sunday Advertiser, P. O. Box 2037, Boston.

CARAWAY BREAD

1½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
2 teaspoons caraway seeds
1 egg
5-8 cup milk

Mix and sift the dry ingredients and work in the shortening. Add the caraway seeds. Beat the egg, add the milk and add to the first mixture. Spread in a shallow pan, sprinkle with sugar and bake in moderate oven (375 deg.) for about 30 minutes.

MRS. F. C. JONAH
88 Union st., E. Walpole.
PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

½ cup butter
½ cup peanut butter
½ cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
1½ cups flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder

Cream butter and peanut butter. Add sugar and cream well. Add well beaten egg to cream mixture. Sift flour, soda, salt and baking powder and add to cream mixture. Chill the dough several hours or over night, which is better. Roll dough out thin and cut to size desired. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven 12 to 15 minutes.

MRS. R. T. DARCY
34 Pawsey st., Hough's Neck, Quincy
WINTER MARMALADE

Cook 1 large can of tomatoes until reduced to about 1 pint of thick pulp. Rub through a wire sieve to remove seeds. Add 1 pint strained unsweetened apple sauce, grated rinds and juice of 2 medium sized oranges, and 3 cups sugar. Cook until thick. Stir often. Pour into sterilized hot glasses. Cool and cover with wax. This is delicious and fine for children.

BERTHA J. COMPTON
11 Gage st., Needham, Mass.
SUNDAY NIGHT OYSTERS

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon catsup
Worcestershire sauce
1 pint oysters
Hot crackers

Melt the butter in a saucepan. Add flour and stir until smooth. Add paprika, salt, lemon juice, catsup and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Blend well and add the drained oysters and cook until plump. Serve on hot crackers.

Just to speed things up, why wouldn't it be a good idea to enter a snail as pace-maker in the race for world disarmament?

But after all, there was considerable logic in Germany's move—if a disarmament conference won't let you increase your armaments, why hang around?

IN THE PUBLIC'S EYE AND THE PUBLIC'S HAIR.

This is J. Arlington Doakes, unofficial unofficial unofficial ambassador-at-large from the United States to Europe. Traveling secretly from one capital to another, accompanied only by his confidential press agent and a brass band, Mister Doakes hopes to get a definite answer as to whether or not Americans will be permitted to pay the bills in case of war. "I find," says Mr. Doakes, whenever he can coat-lapel some one to listen, "that Americans are not as well liked in Europe as they might be. Time and time again I have been shoved off of sidewalks, and when I try to walk in the streets, taxi drivers honk in derision. The only way to answer such insults is to cancel all old war debts, abolish our navy and let the standing army sit down. Incidentally, there are a lot of empty movie theaters that could be used for this purpose."

The Wiggin Testimony
He Should Enjoy His Own Company

Editorial comment is probably unrequired in the case of Mr. Albert T. Wiggin.

His self-portrait, recently unveiled at Washington, is an all-revealing picture of mercilessly exploited opportunity and confidence.

It is all the more shocking because of Mr. Wiggin's distinguished career and long reputable position in world finance.

The loose, reckless and dubious practices which hastened the 1929 market crash have been generally—perhaps unjustly—credited to the unseasoned group of young consolidators and high-pressure bond salesmen who invaded Wall Street about Armistice time with their war brides and bank affiliate schemes.

We were reluctant to believe that any of our more experienced and fundamentally grounded bankers ever used marked decks or sold short against purchasers of their own securities.

But we now learn that Mr. Wiggin, while chairman of America's largest bank, regularly turned his privileged knowledge of its balance sheet to personal advantage and thereby added millions of dollars to his already enormous fortune.

These millions of dollars mainly came from the pockets of moderately circumstanced men and women who invested faith and money in Chase-issued securities because they could not conceive that the head of the biggest bank on earth would so ravenously and shamelessly betray their trust.

Fortunately for that sound and now honorably managed institution, Mr. Wiggin is no longer chairman of the Chase Bank. But it is regrettable, in view of his recent Senate testimony, that Mr. Wiggin continues to serve as a director of so many other important corporations. Because investors are apt to regard their holdings in such companies as undesirable while Mr. Wiggin is in a position to pre-examine balance sheets and duplicate his B.-M. T. coup.

The Senate investigation unmasks Mr. Wiggin as the mysterious hit-and-run financier who once smashed B.-M. T. common from $24 to $11 in a single day.

Mr. Wiggin, at the moment, was chairman of B.-M. T.'s Finance Committee. And he scutttled his own ship with prior knowledge of the road's unfavorable earnings statement. Numbers of unwary investors were thereby ruined and B.-M. T.'s borrowing capacity severely curtailed.

But Mr. Wiggin wasn't hurt. He got off in the first lifeboat, just as Bruce Ismay, the Titanic's owner, rushed to save himself and left women and children behind to drown.

Mr. Wiggin tells Mr. Pecora that he does not believe in speculation. But all investment will remain speculative until bankers and business executives cease utilizing their huge resources and privileged knowledge to rig markets and manipulate securities for their exclusive profit.

Mr. Wiggin perhaps has not done an illegal thing in his entire career.

The obscene abuse of opportunity is not illegal. Statutory law does not concern itself with doubtful ethics or cupidity or indecent greed.

That is why society, to preserve certain standards, must occasionally, in self-defense, request club resignations and revise dinner lists.

And society may yet thus express its contempt of brilliant but weasel-minded counsel who constantly prowl the nation's legal structure to locate runways and escape-holes for predacious clients.

As for Mr. Wiggin, society should be satisfied to have him spend the rest of his life in his own company.

To Repress Racketeers
One Sure Way

Under Federal leadership, Government is organizing its forces to wage war against the crime of commercial racketeering.

By direction of the President the Department of Justice has begun this mobilization, and the Attorney-General of the United States is inviting the Governors of the several States to enlist in this conflict by insuring the co-operation of the police authorities of the several States.

It is estimated that the criminals who have organized the crime of racketeering into a profitable business are robbing commerce and industry in this country of a thousand million dollars every year.

These jackals of society, as the preliminary investigation of the Department of Justice proves, are operating on a large scale.

They are levying tribute on all sorts of honest commercial and business enterprises.

They are collecting, at the point of a gun, illicit commissions on the transportation and delivery of the very necessaries of life—from milk for the baby to food and clothing for the whole family.

What can be done by Federal leadership, supported by State and local authorities, has been recently demonstrated in the aggressive warfare that has been waged against kidnapers.

Every kidnaping case in recent years in which the assistance of the Department of Justice has been requested by State or local authorities has ended in the punishment of the kidnapers by death, by life sentence, or by long terms of imprisonment.

If racketeers should be tried under martial law, punished promptly and vigorously, branded as public enemies, and upon repetition of the offense shot at sunrise, the enjoyable occupation of racketeering would abate immediately.

Youth and Hard Liquor

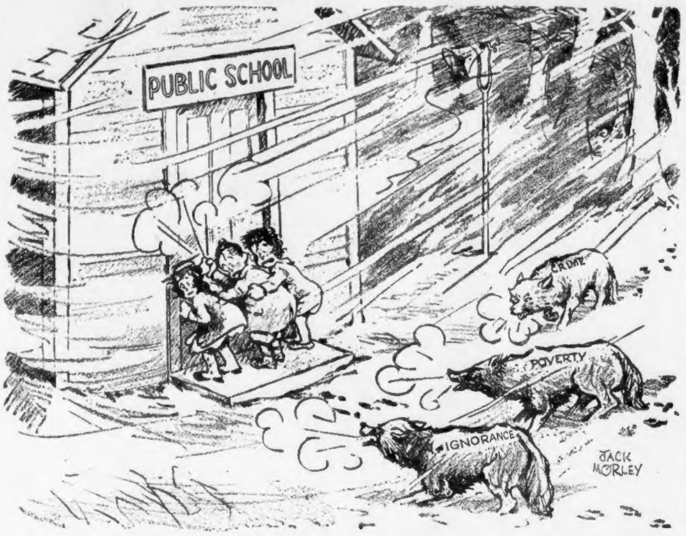
A pessimist writes, from Wellesley:

"When the prodigal son came home, the father went out and killed the fatted calf. But today, with the Eighteenth Amendment knocked into a cocked hat, he would probably order and kill a couple of quarts."

The average father does not want his son to drink, certainly not to overindulge in, intoxicating liquor. If there has been widespread drinking among young people, as there has beyond doubt, it was because of prohibition, not because of its repeal.

Harmful liquor drinking will diminish by education. It has thrived in the secrecy and hypocrisy of prohibition. We all hope that under a new system of liquor control, public morals and morale will improve and the conditions will disappear that have generated so many prodigal sons and daughters.

Orphans of the Storm



The public schools first!

In all schemes for reorganization of local governments and for economies in the public service EDUCATION must rank foremost as the nation's primary need.

When the public schools have been adequately provided for then other needs should be met—for the public schools are the foundation of citizenship.

Nothing has been more detrimental than the practice of false economy, which has deprived many thousands of children of their right to be taught.

Schools closed by this false economy must be reopened for their full terms. More schoolhouses must be provided.

In this critical time education is more necessary than ever before. In the words of Jessie Gray, President of the National Education Association, writing in the Hearst Sunday papers:

> "We need MORE education, not less; BETTER education, not worse; and higher ideals and clearer vision for the oncoming generation, upon whom we depend to finish what this generation has begun."

Sighs for Sime

New York, Nov. 9—Although several weeks have come and gone since his passing, Broadway still sighs for Sime Silverman. The fabulous way that was white remains dark with grief. It was as though Sime, beholding the debacle of the street he loved, turned his face westward so he could see it no more.

O. O. McIntyre

Aside from being Broadway's most beloved figure, he was its most unpredictable. For several years he has known his time on this sphere limited. About five years ago he sneaked to the composing room and inserted: "When Syd Silverman reads this he will know he is owner and editor of Variety."

Syd is his son, college bred and epitomizing all the culture of life his father was denied. Their mutual devotion was a sentimental saga of the hard-boiled district Jimmy Walker once said should be renamed "Sime's Square." Sime's "Variety," Bible of Broadway, made millions.

Today, in my opinion, it's the most all around interesting weekly published. And that's because it continues to reflect Sime, fearless, vigorous and yet as he once wrote me "a soft-hearted sap." He fought all the bigger figures of the theater and never lost a battle. But he did not crow!

A New York lawyer was recalling the most crushing retort. They met in his office—the wife and other woman. The o. w. told of the great passion that had engulfed their lives and pleaded for the wife to give him up. She listened without interrupting to the end, then arose and said: "If ever I contemplate a life of sin, after looking at you, I'll give it up"—and swept imperiously out.

Gilbert Miller in a liner smoking room recently was approached by a gentleman who said: "It would have been a great satisfaction for your distinguished father to see your success in the theater." Miller thanked him but afterward said to a companion: "My father would have rejoiced in anay success of mine save that of the theater. He was like every other actor and producer: "There is only one Henry Miller!"

• • •

Miller, in this chance remark, put a finger on the chief cause of the theater's plight. Such men of the theater as Belasco believed thoroughly there could be but one Belasco. Also Ziegfeld, Erlanger. And thus they trained or encouraged no one to step into their roles.

Many frequent diners-out subscribe heartily to the final couplet of spring-fever poem by Margaret Fishback:

Parsely, parsley, everywhere
..Damn! I want my victual bare.

Ralph D. Blumenfeld spent much of his leisure in New York being shown around by his friend, Isaac F. Marcossen. Blumenfeld began his newspaper career as one of Bennett's bright young men on the Herald. Now at 70 is the doyen of London's Fleet st. and one of the most popular publishers in Britain. It was to Blumenfeld that Bennett barked his most widely quoted aphorism. Blumenfeld had protested the 30 years lease on the Herald Square Plot was too short. "Thirty years from now," retorted the commodore, "the Herald will be in Harlem and I'll be in hell." Then as Blumenfeld was departing, he called: "And, by the way, reduce your salary by $50 a week for trying to tell me how to run my business." This led to the break that sent Blumenfeld to London and his phenomenal success.

With a sudden start at a literary tea today I suddenly became all of a dither remembering Grandma's farewell letter to be read on the train when I set off for Cincinnati to work on a paper. She wrote: "Hope you won't go traipsing around with those literary upstarts, eating lady fingers, writing poetry and paintin' china." Somehow I slunk right home!

Listen, World!
By Elsie Robinson

How Do They Get That Way?

It's so easy to doubt—and so fashionable! The world is filled with Smarty Doubters and Sneerers. In five minutes they can convince you that there's nothing good in nobody nohow? Never was and never will be.

God? Pooh! God's just a silly fable which men have made to comfort their loneliness.

Love? There's really no love. That's just a fancy name for our own selfishness. We only "love" those things which are part of ourselves — which we cherish as part of ourselves.

Elsie Robinson

Justice? Don't make me laugh! "It's for those with a bank roll.

Honor? What hooey! "Every man has his price."

So the cynic prattle on, thinking what Bright Boys they are, and getting many an admiring hand. And you listen, with your sad heart sinking lower and lower.

For what hope is there for you, in your wretchedness and bewilderment, if there is no God to hear your little prayer—no human love to stand by you through the long, dark night—no justice or honor to lean on in the great, cruel world? Yet, surely these scoffing men and women with their brilliant minds must be right.

But they're not, my dear. Doubting is no proof of a brilliant mind. It is merely the proof of a stupid, frightened mind.

The best doubters in the world are savages. A Zulu doubts everything outside the narrow range of his own experience; scoffs at anything new. And he can put up quite as convincing an argument as the most sophisticated cynic—and along exactly the same lines. Life seems as ugly and heartless to the savage as it does to the cynic. He, too, can produce a thousand reasons to prove that man is the helpless victim of malicious forces.

But when you hear a savage say these things, you say, "He's just a poor, ignorant creature. He doesn't know what life is all about. His ideas are the reflection of his own fear, his own hate. He has no imagination. He doesn't dream that there is a beautiful, brave, kindly world outside his dark and blood bespattered jungle."

You say that when a naked savage, with a ring in his nose, grunts and gibbers and grins at "white man magic." But when a Famous Intellectual in evening dress arises in a smart drawing room and tells you that there is no God, or when you read that same Intellectual's grunts, grins and gibberings as set down in a $5 a volume, you swallow it hook, bait and sinker.

Silly you!

The only difference between that Intellectual and the Jungle Savage is that one wears pants and a gardenia and the other wears war paint and a nose ring. Otherwise their viewpoint, and their value to society, are identical.

But isn't the world filled with cruelty and crookedness?

It certainly is.

And aren't there countless tragedies which seem to prove that there is no God; or, if there is, that He doesn't care what happens to you and me?

There certainly are.

BUT FOR EVERY PROOF OF UGLINESS THERE ARE A SCORE OF PROOFS OF BEAUTY. FOR EVERY EVIDENCE THAT THERE ISN'T A SUPREME INTELLIGENCE BEHIND OUR LINES, THERE IS BOUNDLESS, BEAUTIFUL EVIDENCE THAT THERE IS.

Look through a test tube at a drop of water. Examine a rose petal. Watch a mother's eyes as she comes out of the agony of travail and sees her baby for the first time. Read the history of heroic Father Damien, giving his life in service to the lepers; of gentle Edith Cavell facing a firing squad that she might aid those caught within the hell of war. Then doubt, if you can, that there is a God and that His image lives and grows within the hearts of men!

Then why do seemingly intelligence people choose to sneer and scoff? Because it's easier. Doubt's always easier than faith. For doubt is the frightened savage thing, and we're still part frightened savage.

Just Folks

Wild Ducks

I join Jack Miner in his plea the geese and ducks to spare,
And ask no man shall be allowed to kill beyond his share.
I'm sure if I could have my way I'd write the law to mean
That he could kill no more than he could eat or care to clean.
For while I went with Nellie just last night a show to see,
A hunting friend passed by and left six canvas backs for me.

Six canvas backs and feathered full, tied firmly by the feet,
Intended, as right well I knew to be a dinner treat,
But Nellie looking down at them, said: "There's a job for you!
You'll have to dress those ducks yourself. That's work I'll never do."
So bravely to the kitchen after 10 o'clock went I,
To show them just how easily I'd make those feathers fly.

In twenty minutes by the clock I'd feathers on the floor
And feathers on the kitchen stove and feathers on the door.
They gathered on the window pane, they clustered in my hair.
We found them in the dining room and on my easy chair.
I blistered thumbs and fingers and before I'd finished them
I stood knee deep in feathers as the clock struck three a. m.

So selfishly, Jack Miner, I endorse your earnest plea
That the kill allowed to hunters, nationwide, should fewer be.
And were the question put to me this very hour I'd say
No sportsman should have canvas backs or teal to give away!
Or better still the law should read: "No man shall kill a duck
Beyond the number he himself at night will clean and pluck."

U. S. to Protect Trade In Japan-Russia Clash
By James T. Williams, Jr.

Secretary Swanson repeats the recent announcement made by the Navy Department that after spending next summer in the Atlantic the United States fleet will return to the Pacific before the end of 1934.

The fleet faces two other possibilities, well understood by the Navy Department, but about which its officials are not now "talking for publication."

One is the possibility that events in the Far East may prevent the fleet from leaving the Pacific next spring. The other is that events in the Far East may compel the return of the fleet to the Pacific soon after its arrival in the Atlantic.

Far Eastern developments upon which the future movements of the fleet must, in a measure, depend have to do with the relations between Russia and Japan.

At the moment these relations appear to be far from encouraging. As Mr. Litvinoff, the Russian commisar for foreign affairs, arrived in Washington seeking recognition from the United States for his government, Tokyo received a sharp note from Moscow.

Russia warns Japan in this communication to keep hands off Russian territory in the Far East. Simultaneously, Russian officials in Tokio announced that if Japanese airplanes repeat their alleged flight over Russian territory they will be fired upon.

DEEP FEELING

These are emphatic exchanges for governments to indulge in. They signify deep popular feeling concerning the situation along the Russian border of Manchuria, on the part of both the Russian and Japanese peoples.

If Russia and Japan go to war, the United States will promptly resort to her traditional policy of armed neutrality. This would require the presence of the United States fleet in the Pacific—possibly in the far Pacific—to enforce American neutrality and uphold the American doctrine of "the freedom of the seas."

This doctrine has been well defined by Sen. Borah as "the right of neutral nations to carry their commerce as freely in time of war as in time of peace, except when they carry actual munitions of war, or when they seek to break a blockade."

As a neutral, therefore, the United States, should Russia and Japan go to war, will insist upon her right to continue her normal trade and other relations with China.

If Russo-American relations have been resumed, Russia, as well as Japan, would be a large purchaser in the American market of all sorts of supplies.

Russia would not require delivery of American shipments via Europe. A Japanese blockade of Vladivostok would prevent delivery of American shipments to Russia there.

Russia would seek to obtain supplies from the United States through China—probably through southern China where Russian influence is strongest.

ONE DISADVANTAGE

To prevent American shipments from reaching Russia via China, Japan would doubtless invoke "the Kirkwall practice" followed by England during the great war, "ration" China, and attempt to compel all American merchant vessels bound for Chinese ports to call at Japanese ports to be searched for contraband.

Public sentiment forced the American government to protest this English practice during the great war. And the government at Washington that would permit Japan to repeat this practice could not long retain the support of public sentiment in any part of the United States.

There are many mutual advantages to be obtained from the resumption of normal relations between the United States and Russia.

One of the disadvantages may turn out to be the maintenance of American neutrality in the Far Pacific, should Russia and Japan go from angry words to war.

Whether the United States fleet maneuvers in the Pacific or in the Atlantic is a question to be decided exclusively by the American government.

The fleet is as much at home in the Atlantic as in the Pacific. It has no permanent base on either coast. To enable the fleet to maneuver in either ocean, at the will of the commander-in-chief, was the paramount purpose for which the American people built, operate and defend the Panama Canal.

This policy of fleet rotation is a permanent American policy. But it has repercussions the world around. And its repercussions in the Far East will bear watching.

Human Side of the News
Eastman, Mencken Stride Along Alone Because They Decline to Be Bound by Crowd's Opinions
By Edwin C. Hill

Striding along in the van of the news are various gentlemen who stand out from the crowd because they decline to be bound by the opinions of the crowd. Gentlemen of original mind and vigorous intellectual honesty. For example: Joseph B. Eastman and Henry L. Mencken.

To Mr. Eastman the President has handed the herculean labor of restoring prosperity to the railroads, the steel web which binds together the far-flung and widely different regions and sections of this vast United States now well-nigh on the rocks. Stupid legislation, unrestricted competition and crazy financing have been wrecking an industry upon which at least 10,000,000 people depend directly or indirectly for their bed and board. The Big Bad Wolf is puffing his cheeks at their front door.

EASTMAN'S MEASURE

And now comes big Joe Eastman to save them from being gobbled up. He is one man who believes that public office is a public trust. For 14 years, as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, he fought tooth and nail to keep the railroads from getting the best of it, but fought just as hard to keep them from getting the worst of it. He knows the railroads up and down and across the middle, all the good of them and all the bad of them.

He deals in facts and knows what he knows. He believes that government ownership has got to come, but that it can't be rushed. Meantime the roads have got to be coordinated. They have got to quit wasting money on flamboyant competition. They have got to get rid of banker control. It is pretty much the measure of the man when he says:

"It is my profound conviction that the best things which have been done in this world have been impelled by higher motives than the desire for gain."

Of all the gentlemen who have gleefully thrown monkey wrenches into the droning machinery of rigid ideas, Mr. Henry L. Mencken, the plump sage of Baltimore, is by far the most entertaining. He never poses. He never struts. His sense of the ridiculous is too keen to permit him ever to stand upon a public platform like a Sinclair Lewis and defy the Almighty to strike him down. His poise forbids him to puff his cheeks and blow out rage like a Theodore Dreiser.

ABOUT COURAGE

A good fellow, as well as a brilliant mind, he has broadened and mellowed with the oncoming years. He has acquired the most valuable thing almost that we need in this world—tolerance.

And so he gives up the editorship of the American Mercury, after building its circulation up to seventy-five thousand; leaves to continue his role as the jovial philosopher, loving life, and playing all about him with his inexhaustible impishness.

Courage is always an absorbing topic. Prof. William Lyons Phelps points out in his new book, "The Courage of Ignorance," that courage is as necessary in the ordinary daily living as it is in high adventure. Women, he thinks, have more courage than men, because they need it more. It takes courage just to be a woman.

He doesn't think that courage is the greatest of the virtues, because so many abominable persons have it. Courage is something which blazes out above all reason and common sense, deriving from the mysterious fountain of the soul rather than from the careful processes of the brain.

Robert Clive, who won India for England, was only an obscure clerk for the Honorable East India Company when he sat down one night to a game of cards with British army officers, the only civilian. He saw that one of the officers, a captain, was cheating. Nine hundred and ninety-nine humble clerks out of a thousand would have kept their mouths shut. Clive made an instant accusation, refused to be snubbed and a few minutes later found himself facing the accused officer in a duel with pistols.

At the first breath of the word, Clive fired and missed. By the rules of duelling his opponent had the right to a free shot. He aimed his pistol and, holding it pointed toward Clive's heart, called out: "Tell me now. Did I cheat?"

NEY'S PHILOSOPHY

The young clerk snapped back without an instant's hesitation: "Go to hell!"

No shot was fired. Robert Clive lived to be the conqueror of India and its governor general—and to die at 50 by his own hand.

Courage of the superb quality, the courage that triumphs over fear, was the spiritual gonfalon of the Great Marshal Ney, whom Napoleon called the bravest of the brave. In the Battle of Waterloo, as he was about to lead the great cavalry charge which broke against the invincible wall of British defense, a dreadful fear, chilled the marshal as he climbed into the saddle.

His hands were icy with it. His heart was in his mouth. His knees shook. Try as he would, he could not control those shaking knees. But as he made ready to give the command for the great charge, he looked at his knees.

"Shake away, knees," said the great marshal. "You would shake worse than that if you knew where I was going to take you."
